Jude's connection with 2 Peter is debated. What one decides about this issue inevitably affects one's beliefs about the authorship and dating of each letter. They are strikingly similar in content. Thus, if 2 Peter used Jude and the latter book was written somewhere between A.D. 65 and 80, the apostle Peter could not have been the author of 2 Peter. But the use of 2 Peter by Jude poses no such problem, allowing 2 Peter to fit within Peter's lifetime. It seems best to conclude that Jude borrowed from 2 Peter or that both used a common source.

Structure

The epistle of Jude is a vigorous and pointed piece of writing. Scholars have often remarked that its Greek is quite good and that Jude used imagery effectively. The letter bears the marks of a careful and disciplined structure and was directed to specific circumstances in the life of the church. Jude was steeped in the OT and Jewish tradition, and he regularly applied OT types and texts to the false teachers who had invaded the church (vv. 8,12,16).

Pseudepigraphal writings are noncanonical books not written by their purported authors. Jude cited from the pseudepigraphal book of 1 Enoch (1:9) in Jude 14-15. He likely also referred to an event found in the Assumption of Moses (Jd 9). But this does not mean that Jude viewed these noncanonical books as authoritative Scripture. Under the inspiration of the Holy Spirit, he simply used them as illustrations.

Timeline

Study Notes vv. 1 Jude called himself a slave of Jesus Christ and a brother of James. The James named here was surely the well-known leader of the Jerusalem church (Ac 15:13-21; Gl 2:9; see Introduction). This James was the brother of Jesus (Mk 6:3). Jude humbly designated himself as Christ’s slave rather than mention that he was related to Jesus. The called are those who respond in faith to God's initiative in salvation. Loved by God the Father is a result of being called. The expression kept by Jesus Christ means that believers are kept safe or preserved by Jesus until their salvation is consummated at His return.

vv. 2 Mercy is God's kindness and compassion toward His people. Peace is the well-being that results from this relationship. Love is (Gk) agape, a godly volitional love which has the best interests of other persons in mind whether or not they love in return. The word may refer to God's love for man and to man's love for God and other people.

vv. 3-4 Jude originally meant to write a letter about salvation to his friends, but he changed his plans when he learned about false teachers who had secretly made their way into the church. Because of the influence of false teachers he urged his readers to contend for the faith entrusted to them once for all. Contending for the faith is not just a vigorous defense of the Christian faith but an advancement of the gospel as well. These actions must be accompanied by an obedient lifestyle (cp. vv. 20-23). The faith . . . delivered once for all refers to the Christian revelation, or the body of fixed, authoritative, orthodox apostolic teaching that has been handed down to believers.

vv. 5-7 Jude pointed out that the false teachers deserved divine judgment and would receive it in the future. He wanted to remind his readers that God had acted decisively in the past against those who opposed Him. He mentioned three examples of God's judgment: (1) the judgment of unbelieving Israel in the wilderness after being delivered out of Egypt (Nm 32:10-12); (2) the angels who fell (cp. 1 Enoch 6:19); and (3) the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah for sexual immorality (Gn 19:24-29).

vv. 8 The false teachers' sins were like those mentioned in verses 5-7. They pursued empty dreams and arrogantly committed sexual immorality, rebelled against authority, and blasphemed glorious ones (Gk doxas). The latter term frequently refers to angels.

vv. 9 Jude contrasted the heretics' blasphemy of angels with the restraint that Michael the archangel showed when disputing with the Devil in a debate about Moses' body. Scholars generally agree that this story was taken from the Assumption of Moses , an apocryphal book. In the story, Michael sought to bury Moses' body. The Devil opposed the burial with the claim that he was lord over matter and Moses was a murderer. Rather than assuming the right to condemn Satan for his slander, Michael called on the Lord to judge.

vv. 10 Jude described the false teachers as slandering what they did not understand. He compared them to unreasoning animals that would destroy themselves by the things they instinctively pursued.

11 Jude also compared the heretics to Cain (Gn 4:4-5,8-9), Balaam (Nm 31:16), and Korah (Nm 16:1-35). These men deceived others and were known for their hatred, greed, and rebellion.

vv. 12-13 To demonstrate further that the false teachers were like those mentioned earlier (v. 11), Jude portrayed them with several metaphors. He described them as dangerous reefs at your love feasts. This means the false teachers were like submerged rocks, unseen by sailors, that could wreck a ship. Love feasts were fellowship meals at which the Lord's Supper was observed. These heretics were shepherds who fed only themselves without any concern for others. They were useless and full of empty promises like waterless clouds carried along by winds. Jude portrayed them as barren fruit trees and wild waves of the sea that deposited their refuse of shameful deeds on the shore of people's lives. The heretics were also like wandering stars for whom the blackness of darkness was reserved forever. Some scholars hold that Jude was influenced here by 1 Enoch 18:13-16. In this text the rebellion of heavenly beings caused the planets to wander. Or, Jude was possibly thinking of the angels who fell earlier (Jd 6). Angels falling from heaven were sometimes pictured as falling stars (cp. Is 14:12-15; Rv 9:1). Like disobedient angels destined for eternal punishment, heretics are heading for eternal darkness.

vv. 14-15 Jude emphasized that the heretics would suffer divine retribution. He pictured this judgment by quoting a prophecy from 1 Enoch 1:9. Their punishment would take place when the Lord returns to judge the wicked.

16 In the previous verse, Jude warned that the heretics would be judged for their deeds and words. In this verse he focused more on their words. The false teachers were self-indulgent, discontented complainers. They uttered arrogant words, flattering people in order to take what they wanted from them.

vv. 17-19 Jude urged his readers to remember that these false teachers were nothing new because the apostles had foretold of such people who scoffed at those who refused to follow them. Jude may have referred to warnings like those in Ac 20:29-30 and 1Tm 4:1-3. The heretics created divisions and followed their ungodly desires. As people who were unbelievers, they did not have the Spirit.

vv. 20-23 After primarily describing the false teachers up to this point, Jude now exhorted his readers on how to contend for the faith (cp. v. 3). They were to show mercy to those who were wavering, reach out to those who had already been taken in and needed to be snatched from the fire (cp. Am 4:11; Zch 3:2), and show concern for the wayward heretics, all at the same time. But believers were to be careful lest they also became defiled.

vv. 24-25 Jude ended his letter with a doxology that served as a reminder of the divine power available to believers as they contend against heretics. He praised God because He was able to protect them from falling into the sinful practices of the false teachers and grant them entrance into His glorious presence.

Focus passage Jude 4

Despotes (Master) refers to one who holds authority and power over the life and affairs of another person. Most frequently, despotes appears as a title for God or Christ. The term emphasizes God's sovereignty, variously highlighting His right to create, judge, or save. Three times the saints use despotes when prayerfully entreating their Sovereign (Lk 2:29; Ac 4:24; Rv 6:10). Paul emphasizes God's sovereign right as Master to use His people as He chooses (2Tm 2:21). Likewise, Christ is Sovereign and Lord over salvation, worthy of the saints' obedience (Jd 4), and He is the Master who purchased men with His own blood (2Pt 2:1). Elsewhere, despotes may refer to an earthly master with a slave in the service of his household. In Christian ethic, slaves are exhorted to respect their masters (1Tm 6:1-2) and to submit to them in everything (Ti 2:9; 1Pt 2:18).

REVELATION

Prologue

1 The revelation of [A] Jesus Christ that God gave Him to show His •slaves [a] what must quickly [B] take place. [b] He sent it and signified it [c] through His angel [d] to His slave John, [e] 2 who testified to God's word and to the testimony [C] about Jesus Christ, [f] in all he saw. [D] 3 The one who reads this is blessed, [g] and those who hear the words of this prophecy and keep [E] what is written in it are blessed, because the time is near!

4 John:

To the seven churches in •Asia .

Grace and peace [h] to you from [i] the One who is, who was, and who is coming; [j] from the seven spirits [F, k] before His throne; 5 and from Jesus Christ, the faithful witness, the firstborn from the dead and the ruler of the kings of the earth.

To Him who loves us and has set us free [l] from our sins by His blood, 6 and made us a kingdom, [m] priests [G, n] to His God and Father — the glory and dominion are His forever and ever. •Amen .

7 Look! He is coming with the clouds, [o]
and every eye will see Him, including those who pierced [H] Him.
And all the families of the earth [I, p], [q] will mourn over Him. [J, r], [s]
This is certain. Amen.

8 "I am the •Alpha and the Omega," [t] says the Lord God, "the One who is, who was, and who is coming, the Almighty."

John's Vision of the Risen Lord

9 I, John, your brother and partner in the tribulation, kingdom, and endurance that are in Jesus, was on the island called Patmos because of God's word and the testimony about Jesus. [K, u] 10 I was in the Spirit [L, v], [w] on the Lord's day, [x] and I heard a loud voice behind me like a trumpet 11 saying, "Write on a scroll [y] what you see and send it to the seven churches: Ephesus, Smyrna, Pergamum, Thyatira, Sardis, Philadelphia, and Laodicea."

12 I turned to see whose voice [z] it was that spoke to me. When I turned I saw seven gold lampstands, 13 and among the lampstands was One like the •Son of Man, [M, a] dressed in a long robe and with a gold sash wrapped around His chest. 14 His head and hair were white like wool — white as snow — and His eyes like a fiery flame. 15 His feet were like fine bronze as it is fired in a furnace, and His voice like the sound of cascading [N] waters. [b 16] He had seven stars in His right hand; a sharp double-edged sword came from His mouth, [c] and His face was shining like the sun at midday. [O]

[17] When I saw Him, I fell at His feet like a dead man. He laid His right hand on me and said, “Don’t be afraid! I am the First and the Last, [d 18] and the Living One. I was dead, but look — I am alive forever and ever, and I hold the keys of death and •Hades . [19] Therefore write what you have seen, what is, and what will take place after this. [20] The •secret of the seven stars you saw in My right hand and of the seven gold lampstands is this: The seven stars are the angels [e] of the seven churches, and the seven lampstands [f] are the seven churches.

THE LETTERS TO THE SEVEN CHURCHES THE LETTER TO EPHESUS

2 “Write to the angel [a] of the church in Ephesus:

“The One who holds the seven stars in His right hand and who walks among the seven gold lampstands says: 2 I know your works, your labor, and your endurance, and that you cannot tolerate evil. You have tested those who call themselves apostles and are not, and you have found them to be liars. 3 You also possess endurance and have tolerated many things because of My name and have not grown weary. 4 But I have this against you: You have abandoned the love you had at first. 5 Remember then how far you have fallen; repent, and do the works you did at first. Otherwise, I will come to you [b] and remove your lampstand from its place — unless you repent. 6 Yet you do have this: You hate the practices of the Nicolaitans, which I also hate.

7 “Anyone who has an ear should listen to what the Spirit says to the churches. I will give the victor [c] the right to eat from the tree of life, which is in [d] God’s paradise. [e]

The Letter to Smyrna

8 “Write to the angel of the church in Smyrna:

“The First and the Last, the One who was dead and came to life, says: 9 I know your [f] affliction and poverty, yet you are rich. I know the slander of those who say they are Jews and are not, but are a •synagogue of Satan. 10 Don’t be afraid of what you are about to suffer. Look, the Devil is about to throw some of you into prison to test you, and you will have affliction for 10 days. Be faithful until death, and I will give you the crown [g] of life.

11 “Anyone who has an ear should listen to what the Spirit says to the churches. The victor will never be harmed by the second death. [h]

The Letter to Pergamum

12 “Write to the angel of the church in Pergamum: “The One who has the sharp, double-edged sword [i] says: 13 I know [j] where you live — where Satan’s throne is! And you are holding on to My name and did not deny your faith in Me, [k] even in the days of Antipas, My faithful witness who was killed among you, where Satan lives. 14 But I have a few things against you. You have some there who hold to the teaching of Balaam, who taught Balak to place a stumbling block [l] in front of the Israelites: to eat meat sacrificed to idols and to commit sexual immorality. [m] 15 In the same way, you also have those who hold to the teaching of the Nicolaitans. [n] 16 Therefore repent! Otherwise, I will come to you quickly and fight against them with the sword of My mouth.

17 “Anyone who has an ear should listen to what the Spirit says to the churches. I will give the victor some of the hidden manna. [o,] [p] I will also give him a white stone, and on the stone a new name [q] is inscribed that no one knows except the one who receives it.

The Letter to Thyatira

18 “Write to the angel of the church in Thyatira: “The Son of God, the One whose eyes are like a fiery flame and whose feet are like fine bronze, [r] says: 19 I know your works — your love, faithfulness, [s] service, and endurance. Your last works are greater than the first. 20 But I have this against you: You tolerate the woman Jezebel, who calls herself a prophetess and teaches and deceives My •slaves to commit sexual immorality [t] and to eat meat sacrificed to idols. 21 I gave her time to repent, but she does not want to repent of her sexual immorality. [u] 22 Look! I will throw her into a sickbed and those who commit adultery with her into great tribulation, unless they repent of her [v] practices. 23 I will kill her children with the plague. [w, x] Then all the churches will know that I am the One who examines minds [y] and hearts, and I will give to each of you according to your works. 24 I say to the rest of you in Thyatira, who do not hold this teaching, who haven’t known the deep things [z] of Satan — as they say — I do not put any other burden on you. 25 But hold on to what you have until I come. [a] 26 The one who is victorious and keeps My works to the end: I will give him authority over the nations —

27 and he will shepherd [b, c] them with an iron scepter;
he will shatter them like pottery [d, e] —

just as I have received this from My Father. 28 I will also give him the morning star. [f]

29 “Anyone who has an ear should listen to what the Spirit says to the churches.

The Letter to Sardis

3 “Write to the angel of the church in Sardis:

“The One who has the seven spirits of God [a] and the seven stars says: I know your works; you have a reputation [b] for being alive, but you are dead. 2 Be alert and strengthen [c] what remains, which is about to die, for I have not found your works complete before My God. 3 Remember, therefore, what you have received and heard; keep it, and repent. But if you are not alert, I will come [d] like a thief, and you have no idea at what hour I will come against you. [e] 4 But you have a few people [f] in Sardis who have not defiled [g] their clothes, and they will walk with Me in white, because they are worthy. 5 In the same way, the victor will be dressed in white clothes, and I will never erase his name from the book of life [h] but will acknowledge his name before My Father and before His angels.

6 “Anyone who has an ear should listen to what the Spirit says to the churches.

The Letter to Philadelphia

7 “Write to the angel of the church in Philadelphia:

“The Holy One, the True One, the One who has the key of David, who opens and no one will close, and closes and no one opens [i] says: 8 I know your works.
Because you have limited strength, have kept My word, and have not denied My name, look, I have placed before you an open door that no one is able to close. 9 Take note! I will make those from the •synagogue of Satan, who claim to be Jews and are not, but are lying — note this — I will make them come and bow down at your feet, and they will know that I have loved you. [j] 10 Because you have kept My command to endure, [k] I will also keep you from the hour of testing that is going to come over the whole world to test those who live on the earth. 11 I am coming quickly. Hold on to what you have, [l] so that no one takes your crown. 12 The victor: I will make him a pillar in the sanctuary of My God, and he will never go out again. I will write on him the name of My God and the name of the city of My God — the new Jerusalem, which comes down out of heaven from My God — and My new name. [m]

13 “Anyone who has an ear should listen to what the Spirit says to the churches.

The Letter to Laodicea

14 “Write to the angel of the church in Laodicea:

“The •Amen , the faithful and true Witness, the Originator [n, o] of God’s creation says: 15 I know your works, that you are neither cold nor hot. I wish that you were cold or hot. 16 So, because you are lukewarm, and neither hot nor cold, I am going to vomit [p] you out of My mouth. 17 Because you say, ‘I’m rich; I have become wealthy and need nothing,’ and you don’t know that you are wretched, pitiful, poor, blind, and naked, 18 I advise you to buy from Me gold refined in the fire so that you may be rich, white clothes so that you may be dressed and your shameful nakedness not be exposed, and ointment to spread on your eyes so that you may see. 19 As many as I love, I rebuke and discipline. So be committed [q] and repent. 20 Listen! I stand at the door and knock. If anyone hears My voice and opens the door, I will come in to him and have dinner with him, and he with Me. 21 The victor: I will give him the right to sit with Me on My throne, just as I also won the victory and sat down with My Father on His throne.

The Throne Room of Heaven

4 After this I looked, and there in heaven was an open door. The first voice that I had heard speaking to me like a trumpet said, “Come up here, and I will show you what must take place after this.”

2 Immediately I was in the Spirit, [A,][a] and a throne was set there in heaven. [b]
One was seated on the throne, 3 and the One seated [c] looked like jasper [d] and carnelian [e] stone. A rainbow that looked like an emerald surrounded the throne.
4 Around that throne were 24 thrones, and on the thrones sat 24 elders dressed in white clothes, with gold crowns on their heads. 5 Flashes of lightning and rumblings of thunder came from the throne. Seven fiery torches were burning before the throne, which are the seven spirits of God. [f] 6 Something like a sea of glass, similar to crystal, was also before the throne. Four living creatures [g] covered with eyes in front and in back were in the middle [B] and around the throne. 7 The first living creature was like a lion; the second living creature was like a calf; the third living creature had a face like a man; and the fourth living creature was like a flying eagle. 8 Each of the four living creatures had six wings; [h] they were covered with eyes around and inside. Day and night they never stop, [C] saying:

Holy, holy, holy, [i]
Lord God, the Almighty,
who was, who is, and who is coming.

9 Whenever the living creatures give glory, honor, and thanks to the One seated on the throne, the One who lives forever and ever, 10 the 24 elders fall down before the One seated on the throne, worship the One who lives forever and ever, cast their crowns before the throne, and say:

11 Our Lord and God, [j]
You are worthy to receive glory and honor and power, because You have created all things, and because of Your will they exist and were created.

The Lamb Takes the Scroll

5 Then I saw in the right hand of the One seated on the throne a scroll with writing on the inside and on the back, [a] sealed with seven seals. 2 I also saw a mighty angel proclaiming in a loud voice, “Who is worthy to open the scroll and break its seals? ” 3 But no one in heaven or on earth or under the earth was able to open the scroll or even to look in it. 4 And I cried and cried because no one was found worthy to open [b] the scroll or even to look in it.

5 Then one of the elders said to me, “Stop crying. Look! The Lion from the tribe of Judah, [c] the Root of David, [d] has been victorious [e] so that He may open the scroll and [f] its seven seals.” 6 Then I saw One like a slaughtered lamb standing between [A] the throne and the four living creatures and among the elders. He had seven horns and seven eyes, which are the seven spirits of God [g] sent into all the earth. 7 He came and took the scroll [h] out of the right hand of the One seated on the throne.

The Lamb Is Worthy

8 When He took the scroll, the four living creatures and the 24 elders fell down before the Lamb. Each one had a harp and gold bowls filled with incense, which are the prayers of the •saints . 9 And they sang a new song: [i]

You are worthy to take the scroll and to open its seals, because You were slaughtered, and You •redeemed [B] people [j] for God by Your blood from every tribe and language and people and nation. [k] 10 You made them a kingdom [l] and priests to our God, [m] and they will reign on the earth.

11 Then I looked and heard the voice of many angels around the throne, and also of the living creatures and of the elders. Their number was countless thousands, plus thousands of thousands. 12 They said with a loud voice:

The Lamb who was slaughtered is worthy to receive power and riches and wisdom and strength and honor and glory and blessing!

13 I heard every creature in heaven, on earth, under the earth, on the sea, and everything in them say:

Blessing and honor and glory and dominion to the One seated on the throne, and to the Lamb, forever and ever!

14 The four living creatures said, "•Amen ," and the elders fell down and worshiped.

The First Seal on the Scroll

6 Then I saw [A] the Lamb open one of the seven [a] seals, and I heard one of the four living creatures say with a voice like thunder, “Come! ” [b, B 2] I looked, and there was a white horse. [c] The horseman on it had a bow; a crown was given to him, and he went out as a victor to conquer. [C]

The Second Seal

3 When He opened the second seal, I heard the second living creature say, “Come! ” d, D 4 Then another horse went out, a fiery red one, and its horseman was empowered E to take peace from the earth, so that people would slaughter one another. And a large sword was given to him. e

The Third Seal

5 When He opened the third seal, I heard the third living creature say, “Come! ” [f, F] And I looked, and there was a black horse. The horseman on it had a set of scales in his hand. 6 Then I heard something like a voice among the four living creatures say, “A quart of wheat for a •denarius , and three quarts of barley for a denarius — but do not harm the olive oil and the wine.”

The Fourth Seal

7 When He opened the fourth seal, I heard the voice of the fourth living creature say, “Come! ” [g, G] 8 And I looked, and there was a pale green [H] horse. The horseman on it was named Death, and •Hades was following after him. Authority was given to them [h, i] over a fourth of the earth, to kill by the sword, by famine, by plague, and by the wild animals of the earth.

The Fifth Seal

9 When He opened the fifth seal, I saw under the altar the people [I] slaughtered because of God's word and the testimony they had. [j, k] 10 They cried out with a loud voice: "Lord, [J] the One who is holy and true, how long until You judge and avenge our blood from those who live on the earth? " 11 So a white robe was given to each of them, and they were told to rest a little while longer until the number would be completed of their fellow slaves and their brothers, who were going to be killed just as they had been.

The Sixth Seal

12 Then I saw Him open [K] the sixth seal. A violent earthquake occurred; the sun turned black like •sackcloth [l] made of goat hair; the entire moon [L] became like blood; 13 the stars [m] of heaven fell to the earth as a fig tree drops its unripe figs when shaken by a high wind; 14 the sky separated like a scroll being rolled up; and every mountain and island was moved from its place.

15 Then the kings of the earth, the nobles, the military commanders, the rich, the powerful, and every •slave and free person hid in the caves and among the rocks of the mountains. [n] 16 And they said to the mountains and to the rocks, “Fall on us and hide us [o] from the face of the One seated on the throne and from the wrath of the Lamb, 17 because the great day of Their [p] wrath has come! And who is able to stand? ” [q]

The Sealed of Israel

7 After this I saw four angels standing at the four corners of the earth, [a] restraining the four winds of the earth so that no wind could blow on the earth or on the sea or on any tree. 2 Then I saw another angel, who had the seal of the living God rise up from the east. He cried out in a loud voice to the four angels who were empowered [A] to harm the earth and the sea: 3 "Don't harm the earth or the sea or the trees until we seal the •slaves of our God on their foreheads." 4 And I heard the number of those who were sealed:

144,000 sealed from every tribe of the Israelites:
5 12,000 sealed from the tribe of Judah,
12,000 [b] from the tribe of Reuben,
12,000 from the tribe of Gad,
6 12,000 from the tribe of Asher,
12,000 from the tribe of Naphtali,
12,000 from the tribe of Manasseh,
7 12,000 from the tribe of Simeon,
12,000 from the tribe of Levi,
12,000 from the tribe of Issachar,
8 12,000 from the tribe of Zebulun,
12,000 from the tribe of Joseph,
12,000 sealed from the tribe of Benjamin.

A Multitude from the Great Tribulation 9 After this I looked, and there was a vast multitude from every nation, tribe, people, and language, which no one could number, standing before the throne and before the Lamb. They were robed in white with palm branches in their hands. 10 And they cried out in a loud voice:

Salvation belongs to our God, who is seated on the throne,
and to the Lamb!

11 All the angels stood around the throne, the elders, and the four living creatures, and they fell facedown before the throne and worshiped God, 12 saying:

•Amen ! Blessing and glory and wisdom and thanksgiving and honor and power and strength be to our God forever and ever. Amen.

13 Then one of the elders asked me, "Who are these people robed in white, and where did they come from? ”

14 I said to him, “Sir, [B] you know.”
Then he told me:

These are the ones coming out of the great tribulation.
They washed their robes and made them white [c]
in the blood of the Lamb.
15 For this reason they are before the throne of God, and they serve Him day and night in His sanctuary.
The One seated on the throne will shelter [C] them:
16 They will no longer hunger;
they will no longer thirst;
the sun will no longer strike them,
nor will any heat. [d] 17 For the Lamb who is at the center of the throne will shepherd them; [e]
He will guide them to springs of living waters, [f] and God will wipe away every tear from their eyes. [g]

The Seventh Seal

8 When He opened the seventh seal, there was silence in heaven for about half an hour. 2 Then I saw the seven angels who stand in the presence of God;
seven trumpets were given to them. 3 Another angel, with a gold incense burner, came and stood at the altar. He was given a large amount of incense to offer with the prayers of all the •saints on the gold altar in front of the throne. 4 The smoke of the incense, with the prayers of the saints, went up in the presence of God from the angel's hand. 5 The angel took the incense burner, filled it with fire from the altar, and hurled it to the earth; there were rumblings of thunder, flashes of lightning, and an earthquake. 6 And the seven angels who had the seven trumpets prepared to blow them.

The First Trumpet

7 The first angel [a] blew his trumpet, and hail and fire, mixed with blood, were hurled to the earth. So a third of the earth was burned up, a third of the trees were burned up, and all the green grass was burned up.

The Second Trumpet

8 The second angel blew his trumpet, and something like a great mountain ablaze with fire was hurled into the sea. b So a third of the sea became blood, 9 a third of the living creatures in the sea died, and a third of the ships were destroyed.

The Third Trumpet

10 The third angel blew his trumpet, and a great star, blazing like a torch, fell from heaven. [c] It fell on a third of the rivers and springs of water. 11 The name of the star is Wormwood, and a third of the waters became •wormwood . So, many of the people died from the waters, because they had been made bitter.

The Fourth Trumpet

12 The fourth angel blew his trumpet, and a third of the sun was struck, a third of the moon, and a third of the stars, so that a third of them were darkened. A third of the day was without light, and the night as well. [d]

13 I looked again and heard an eagle [e] flying high overhead, crying out in a loud voice, "Woe! [f] Woe! Woe to those who live on the earth, because of the remaining trumpet blasts that the three angels are about to sound! "

The Fifth Trumpet

9 The fifth angel blew his trumpet, and I saw a star that had fallen from heaven to earth. [a] The key to the shaft of the •abyss [b] was given to him. [2] He opened the shaft of the abyss, and smoke came up out of the shaft like smoke from a great [c] furnace so that the sun and the air were darkened by the smoke from the shaft. [3] Then locusts came out of the smoke on to the earth, and power [A] was given to them [d] like the power that scorpions have on the earth. [4] They were told not to harm the grass of the earth, or any green plant, or any tree, but only people who do not have God's seal on their foreheads. [5] They were not permitted to kill them but were to torment them for five months; their torment is like the torment caused by a scorpion when it strikes a man. [6] In those days people will seek death and will not find it; they will long to die, but death will flee from them.

[7] The appearance of the locusts was like horses equipped for battle. [e] Something like gold crowns was on their heads; their faces were like men's faces; [8] they had hair like women's hair; their teeth were like lions' teeth; [f] [9] they had chests like iron breastplates; the sound of their wings was like the sound of chariots with many horses rushing into battle; [10] and they had tails with stingers like scorpions, so that with their tails they had the power [B] to harm people for five months. [11] They had as their king [C] the angel of the abyss; his name in Hebrew is •Abaddon , [D] and in Greek he has the name Apollyon. [E] [12]
The first woe has passed. There are still two more woes to come after this.

The Sixth Trumpet

13 The sixth angel blew his trumpet. From the four [g] horns of the gold altar [h] that is before God, I heard a voice 14 say to the sixth angel who had the trumpet, "Release the four angels bound at the great river Euphrates." 15 So the four angels who were prepared for the hour, day, month, and year were released to kill a third of the human race. 16 The number of mounted troops was 200 million; [i] I heard their number. 17 This is how I saw the horses in my vision:
The horsemen had breastplates that were fiery red, hyacinth blue, and sulfur yellow. The heads of the horses were like lions' heads, and from their mouths came fire, smoke, and sulfur. 18 A third of the human race was killed by these three plagues — by the fire, the smoke, and the sulfur that came from their mouths. 19 For the power of the horses is in their mouths and in their tails, for their tails, which resemble snakes, have heads, and they inflict injury with them.

20 The rest of the people, who were not killed by these plagues, did not repent of the works of their hands to stop worshiping demons [j] and idols of gold, silver, bronze, stone, and wood, which are not able to see, hear, or walk. [k] 21 And they did not repent of their murders, their sorceries, [F] their sexual immorality, or their thefts.

The Mighty Angel and the Small Scroll

10 Then I saw another mighty angel [a] coming down from heaven, surrounded by a cloud, with a rainbow [b] over his head. [A] His face was like the sun, his legs [B] were like fiery pillars, [c] 2 and he had a little scroll opened in his hand. He put his right foot on the sea, his left on the land, 3 and he cried out with a loud voice like a roaring lion. When he cried out, the seven thunders spoke with their voices. 4 And when the seven thunders spoke, I was about to write. Then I heard a voice from heaven, saying, "Seal up what the seven thunders said, [d] and do not write it down! "

5 Then the angel that I had seen standing on the sea and on the land raised his right hand to heaven. 6 He swore an oath by the One who lives forever and ever, [e] who created heaven and what is in it, the earth and what is in it, and the sea and what is in it: "There will no longer be an interval of time, [C] 7 but in the days of the sound of the seventh angel, [f] when he will blow his trumpet, then God's •hidden plan [g] will be completed, as He announced to His servants [D] the prophets." [h]

8 Now the voice that I heard from heaven spoke to me again and said, "Go, take the scroll that lies open in the hand of the angel who is standing on the sea and on the land."

9 So I went to the angel and asked him to give me the little scroll. He said to me, "Take and eat it; it will be bitter in your stomach, but it will be as sweet as honey in your mouth." [i]

10 Then I took the little scroll from the angel's hand and ate it. It was as sweet as honey in my mouth, but when I ate it, my stomach became bitter. [j] 11 And I was told, [E] "You must prophesy again about [F] many peoples, nations, languages, and kings." [k]

The Two Witnesses

11 Then I was given a measuring reed [a] like a rod, [b] with these words: “Go [A] and measure God’s sanctuary and the altar, and count those who worship there. 2 But exclude the courtyard outside the sanctuary. Don’t measure it, because it is given to the nations, [B] and they will trample the holy city for 42 months. 3 I will empower [C] my two witnesses, and they will prophesy for 1,260 days, [c, d] dressed in •sackcloth .” [e] 4 These are the two olive trees and the two lampstands that stand before the Lord [f] of the earth. [g] 5 If anyone wants to harm them, fire comes from their mouths and consumes their enemies; [h] if anyone wants to harm them, he must be killed in this way. 6 These men have the power to close up the sky so that it does not rain during the days of their prophecy. [i] They also have power over the waters to turn them into blood [j] and to strike the earth with every plague whenever they want.

The Witnesses Martyred

7 When they finish their testimony, the beast D, k that comes up out of the •abyss will make war with them, conquer them, and kill them. 8 Their dead bodies E, l will lie in the public square F of the great city, which prophetically G is called Sodom and Egypt, where also their Lord was crucified. 9 And representatives from H the peoples, tribes, languages, and nations m will view their bodies for three and a half days and not permit their bodies to be put into a tomb. 10 Those who live on the earth will gloat over them and celebrate and send gifts to one another because these two prophets brought judgment to those who live on the earth.

The Witnesses Resurrected

11 But after 3 1/2 days, the breath [I] of life [n] from God entered them, and they stood on their feet. So great fear fell on those who saw them. 12 Then they heard [o] a loud voice from heaven saying to them, “Come up here.” They went up to heaven in a cloud, while their enemies watched them. [p] 13 At that moment a violent earthquake took place, [q] a tenth of the city fell, and 7,000 people were killed in the earthquake. The survivors were terrified and gave glory to the God of heaven. 14 The second woe [r] has passed. Take note: The third woe is coming quickly!

The Seventh Trumpet

15 The seventh angel blew his trumpet, [s] and there were loud voices in heaven saying:

The kingdom of the •world has become the kingdom of our Lord and of His •Messiah , and He will reign forever and ever! [t]

16 The 24 elders, who were seated before God on their thrones, fell facedown and worshiped God, 17 saying:

We thank You, Lord God, the Almighty, who is and who was, [u, v] because You have taken Your great power and have begun to reign. [w] 18 The nations were angry, [x]
but Your wrath has come.
The time has come for the dead to be judged and to give the reward to Your servants the prophets, [y]
to the •saints , and to those who fear Your name, both small and great, [z]
and the time has come to destroy those who destroy the earth.

19 God's sanctuary in heaven was opened, and the ark of His covenant [a] appeared in His sanctuary. There were flashes of lightning, rumblings of thunder, [b] an earthquake, [c] and severe hail.

The Woman, the Child, and the Dragon

12 A great sign [A] appeared in heaven: a woman clothed with the sun, with the moon under her feet and a crown of 12 stars on her head. [a] 2 She was pregnant and cried out in labor and agony as she was about to give birth. 3 Then another sign [B] appeared in heaven: There was a great fiery red dragon having seven heads and 10 horns, [b] and on his heads were seven diadems. [C] 4
His tail swept away a third of the stars in heaven and hurled them to the earth.
[c] And the dragon stood in front of the woman who was about to give birth, so that when she did give birth he might devour her child. 5 But she gave birth to a Son — a male who is going to shepherd [D] all nations with an iron scepter [d] — and her child was caught up to God and to His throne. 6 The woman fled into the wilderness, where she had a place prepared by God, [e] to be fed there [E] for 1,260 days. [f]

The Dragon Thrown Out of Heaven 7 Then war broke out in heaven: Michael [g] and his angels fought against the dragon. The dragon and his angels also fought, 8 but he could not prevail, and there was no place for them in heaven any longer. 9 So the great dragon was thrown out — the ancient serpent, [h] who is called the Devil [i] and Satan, [j, k] the one who deceives the whole world. [l] He was thrown to earth, and his angels with him.

10 Then I heard a loud voice in heaven say:
The salvation and the power and the kingdom of our God and the authority of His •Messiah have now come,
because the accuser [m] of our brothers has been thrown out:
the one who accuses them
before our God day and night.
11 They conquered him by the blood of the Lamb and by the word of their testimony, for they did not love their lives in the face of death. [n] 12 Therefore rejoice, you heavens, and you who dwell in them!
Woe to the earth and the sea,
for the Devil has come down to you with great fury,

because he knows he has a short time.

The Woman Persecuted

13 When the dragon saw that he had been thrown to earth, he persecuted the woman who gave birth to the male child. 14 The woman was given two wings of a great eagle, so that she could fly from the serpent's presence to her place in the wilderness, where she was fed for a time, times, and half a time. o, p 15 From his mouth the serpent spewed water like a river flowing after the woman, to sweep her away in a torrent. 16 But the earth helped the woman. The earth opened its mouth and swallowed up the river that the dragon had spewed from his mouth. 17
So the dragon was furious with the woman and left to wage war q against the rest of her offspring F — those who keep God's commands and have the testimony about Jesus. r 18 He s stood on the sand of the sea. t

The Beast from the Sea

13 And I saw a beast coming up out of the sea. [a] He [A] had 10 horns and seven heads. On his horns were 10 diadems, [b] and on his heads were blasphemous names. [c, d] 2 The beast I saw was like a leopard, his feet were like a bear's, and his mouth was like a lion's mouth. [e] The dragon gave him his power, his throne, and great authority. 3 One of his heads appeared to be fatally wounded, [B] but his fatal wound was healed. The whole earth was amazed and followed the beast. [C, f] 4 They worshiped the dragon [g] because he gave authority to the beast. And they worshiped the beast, saying, "Who is like the beast? [h] Who is able to wage war against him? "

5 A mouth was given to him to speak boasts and blasphemies. [i] He was also given authority to act [j, D] for 42 months. [k] 6 He began to speak [E] blasphemies against God: to blaspheme His name and His dwelling — those who dwell in heaven. 7 And he was permitted to wage war against the •saints and to conquer them. He was also given authority over every tribe, people, language, and nation. [l] 8 All those who live on the earth will worship him, everyone whose name was not written from the foundation of the world in the book [F] of life [m] of the Lamb who was slaughtered. [G, n]

9 If anyone has an ear, he should listen: [o]

10 If anyone is destined for captivity, into captivity he goes.
If anyone is to be killed [p] with a sword, with a sword he will be killed. [q]

This demands the perseverance [H] and faith of the saints. [r]

The Beast from the Earth

11 Then I saw another beast coming up out of the earth; he had two horns like a lamb, [I, s] but he sounded like a dragon. 12 He exercises all the authority of the first beast on his behalf and compels the earth and those who live on it to worship the first beast, whose fatal wound was healed. 13 He also performs great signs, even causing fire to come down from heaven to earth in front of people. 14
He deceives those who live on the earth [t] because of the signs that he is permitted to perform on behalf of the beast, [u] telling those who live on the earth to make an image [J] of the beast who had the sword wound and yet lived. 15 He was permitted to give a spirit [K] to the image of the beast, so that the image of the beast could both speak and cause whoever would not worship the image of the beast to be killed. 16 And he requires everyone — small and great, rich and poor, free and •slave — to be given a mark [L] on his right hand or on his forehead, [v] 17 so that no one can buy or sell unless he has the mark: the beast's name or the number of his name.

18 Here is wisdom: [M, w] The one who has understanding must calculate [N] the number of the beast, because it is the number of a man. [O] His number is 666. [x]

The Lamb and the 144,000

14 Then I looked, and there on Mount •Zion stood the Lamb, and with Him were 144,000 who had His name and His Father's name written on their foreheads. [a] 2 I heard a sound [A] from heaven like the sound of cascading waters [b] and like the rumbling of loud thunder. The sound I heard was also like harpists playing on their harps. [c] 3 They sang [d] a new song [e] before the throne and before the four living creatures and the elders, [f] but no one could learn the song except the 144,000 who had been •redeemed [B] from the earth. 4 These are the ones not defiled with women, for they have kept their virginity. [g] These are the ones who follow the Lamb wherever He goes. They were redeemed [h,] [C] from the human race as the •firstfruits [i] for God and the Lamb. 5 No lie was found in their mouths; they are blameless. [j]

The Proclamation of Three Angels

6 Then I saw another angel flying high overhead, [k] having the eternal gospel to announce to the inhabitants of the earth — to every nation, tribe, language, and people. [l] 7 He spoke with a loud voice: “Fear God and give Him glory, because the hour of His judgment has come. Worship the Maker of heaven and earth, the sea and springs of water.”

8 A second angel [D] followed, saying: “It has fallen, Babylon the Great has fallen, [m] who made all nations drink the wine of her sexual immorality, [E] which brings wrath.” [n]

9 And a third angel [F] followed them and spoke with a loud voice: “If anyone worships the beast and his image and receives a mark on his forehead or on his hand, 10 he will also drink the wine of God’s wrath, which is mixed full strength in the cup of His anger. [o] He will be tormented with fire and sulfur [p] in the sight of the holy angels and in the sight of the Lamb, 11 and the smoke of their torment will go up forever and ever. [q] There is no rest [G] day or night for those who worship the beast and his image, or anyone who receives the mark of his name.
12 This demands the perseverance [H] of the •saints , [r] who keep God’s commands and their faith in Jesus.” [I] 13 Then I heard a voice from heaven saying, “Write: The dead who die in the Lord from now on are blessed.” [s]

“Yes,” says the Spirit, “let them rest from their labors, for their works follow them! ”

Reaping the Earth’s Harvest

14 Then I looked, and there was a white cloud, and One like the Son of Man [J, t] was seated on the cloud, with a gold crown on His head and a sharp sickle in His hand. 15 Another angel came out of the sanctuary, crying out in a loud voice to the One who was seated on the cloud, “Use your sickle and reap, for the time to reap has come, since the harvest of the earth is ripe.” [u] 16 So the One seated on the cloud swung His sickle over the earth, and the earth was harvested.

17 Then another angel who also had a sharp sickle came out of the sanctuary in heaven. 18 Yet another angel, who had authority over fire, came from the altar, and he called with a loud voice to the one who had the sharp sickle, “Use your sharp sickle and gather the clusters of grapes from earth’s vineyard, because its grapes have ripened.” 19 So the angel swung his sickle toward earth and gathered the grapes from earth’s vineyard, and he threw them into the great winepress of God’s wrath. [v] 20 Then the press was trampled outside the city, and blood flowed out of the press up to the horses’ bridles for about 180 miles. [K, w]

Preparation for the Bowl Judgments

15 Then I saw another great and awe-inspiring sign [A] in heaven: [a] seven angels with the seven last plagues, for with them, God's wrath will be completed. [b] 2 I also saw something like a sea of glass [c] mixed with fire, and those who had won the victory over the beast, his image, [d] and the number of his name, were standing on the sea of glass with harps from God. [B, e] 3 They sang the song of God's servant Moses [f] and the song of the Lamb:

Great and awe-inspiring are Your works,
Lord God, the Almighty;
righteous and true are Your ways,
King of the Nations. [g] 4 Lord, who will not fear and glorify Your name?
Because You alone are holy,
for all the nations will come and worship before You because Your righteous acts have been revealed.

5 After this I looked, and the heavenly sanctuary — the tabernacle of testimony [h] — was opened. [i] 6 Out of the sanctuary came the seven angels with the seven plagues, dressed in •clean , bright linen, with gold sashes wrapped around their chests. 7 One of the four living creatures gave the seven angels seven gold bowls filled with the wrath of God who lives forever and ever. 8 Then the sanctuary was filled with smoke from God's glory and from His power, [j] and no one could enter the sanctuary until the seven plagues of the seven angels were completed.

The First Bowl

16 Then I heard a loud voice from the sanctuary saying to the seven angels, “Go and pour out the seven [a] bowls of God’s wrath on the earth.” 2 The first went and poured out his bowl on the earth, and severely painful sores [A, b] broke out on the people who had the mark of the beast and who worshiped his image.

The Second Bowl

3 The second [c] poured out his bowl into the sea. It turned to blood like a dead man’s, and all life [B] in the sea died. [d]

The Third Bowl

4 The third [e] poured out his bowl into the rivers and the springs of water, and they became blood. [f] 5 I heard the angel of the waters say:

You are righteous,
who is and who was, [g] the Holy One,
for You have decided these things.
6 Because they poured out the blood of the •saints and the prophets,
You also gave them blood to drink;
they deserve it! [h]

7 Then I heard someone from the altar say:

Yes, Lord God, the Almighty, true and righteous are Your judgments. [i]

The Fourth Bowl

8 The fourth [j] poured out his bowl on the sun. He [C] was given the power [D] to burn people with fire, 9 and people were burned by the intense heat. So they blasphemed the name of God, [k] who had the power [E] over these plagues, and they did not repent and give Him glory.

The Fifth Bowl

10 The fifth [l] poured out his bowl on the throne of the beast, [m] and his kingdom was plunged into darkness. [n] People [F] gnawed their tongues because of their pain 11 and blasphemed the God of heaven [o] because of their pains and their sores, yet they did not repent of their actions.

The Sixth Bowl

12 The sixth [p] poured out his bowl on the great river Euphrates, [q] and its water was dried up to prepare the way for the kings from the east. 13 Then I saw three unclean spirits like frogs [r] coming from the dragon's mouth, [s] from the beast's mouth, [t] and from the mouth of the false prophet. [u] 14 For they are spirits of demons performing signs, [v] who travel to the kings of the whole world to assemble them for the battle of the great day of God, the Almighty. [w]

15 "Look, I am coming like a thief. The one who is alert and remains clothed [x, y] so that he may not go around naked and people see his shame [z] is blessed." [a]

16 So they assembled them at the place called in Hebrew, Armagedon. [b, c, d]

The Seventh Bowl

17 Then the seventh [e] poured out his bowl into the air, [G] and a loud voice came out of the sanctuary [f, g] from the throne, saying, “It is done! ” 18 There were flashes of lightning and rumblings of thunder. And a severe earthquake occurred like no other since man has been on the earth — so great was the quake. [h] 19 The great city [i] split into three parts, and the cities of the nations [H] fell. Babylon the Great was remembered in God’s presence; He gave her the cup filled with the wine of His fierce anger. [j] 20 Every island fled, and the mountains disappeared. [I, k] 21 Enormous hailstones, each weighing about 100 pounds, [J] fell from the sky on people, and they blasphemed God [l] for the plague of hail because that plague was extremely severe. [m]

The Woman and the Scarlet Beast

17 Then one of the seven angels who had the seven bowls [a] came and spoke with me: “Come, I will show you the judgment of the notorious prostitute [b] who sits on many [A] waters. [c] 2 The kings of the earth committed sexual immorality with her, and those who live on the earth became drunk on the wine of her sexual immorality.” [d] 3 So he carried me away in the Spirit [B,] [e] to a desert. I saw a woman sitting on a scarlet beast that was covered [C] with blasphemous names and had seven heads and 10 horns. [f] 4 The woman was dressed in purple and scarlet, adorned with gold, precious stones, and pearls. She had a gold cup in her hand filled with everything vile [g] and with the impurities of her [h] prostitution. 5 On her forehead a cryptic name [i] was written:

BABYLON THE GREAT
THE MOTHER OF PROSTITUTES
AND OF THE VILE THINGS OF THE EARTH.

6 Then I saw that the woman was drunk on the blood of the •saints and on the blood of the witnesses to Jesus. When I saw her, I was greatly astonished.

The Meaning of the Woman and of the Beast [7] Then the angel said to me, “Why are you astonished? I will tell you the •secret meaning of the woman and of the beast, with the seven heads and the 10 horns, that carries her. [8] The beast that you saw was, and is not, and is about to come up from the •abyss [j] and go to destruction. [k] Those who live on the earth whose names have not been written in the book of life from the foundation of the world [l] will be astonished when they see the beast that was, and is not, and will be present again. [m]

9 “Here is the mind with wisdom: [D,] [n] The seven heads are seven mountains on which the woman is seated. 10 They are also seven kings: [o] Five have fallen, one is, the other has not yet come, and when he comes, he must remain for a little while. 11 The beast that was and is not, is himself an eighth king, yet he belongs to the seven and is going to destruction. 12 The 10 horns you saw are 10 kings who have not yet received a kingdom, but they will receive authority as kings with the beast for one hour. 13 These have one purpose, and they give their power and authority to the beast. 14 These will make war against the Lamb, but the Lamb will conquer them because He is Lord of lords and King of kings. [p] Those with Him are called, chosen, and faithful.”

15 He also said to me, “The waters you saw, where the prostitute was seated, are peoples, multitudes, nations, and languages. [q] 16 The 10 horns you saw, and the beast, will hate the prostitute. [r] They will make her desolate and naked, devour her flesh, and burn her up with fire. [s] [17] For God has put it into their hearts to carry out His plan by having one purpose [t] and to give their kingdom [E] to the beast until God's words are accomplished. [18] And the woman you saw is the great city that has an empire [F] over the kings of the earth."

The Fall of Babylon the Great

18 After this I saw another angel with great authority coming down from heaven, and the earth was illuminated by his splendor. 2 He cried in a mighty voice:

It has fallen, [a] Babylon the Great has fallen! [b]
She has become a dwelling for demons,
a haunt for every •unclean spirit,
a haunt for every unclean bird, and a haunt [A] for every unclean and despicable beast. [c, d] 3 For all the nations have drunk [e]
the wine of her sexual immorality, which brings wrath. [f]
The kings of the earth have committed sexual immorality with her, and the merchants of the earth
have grown wealthy from her excessive luxury.
4 Then I heard another voice from heaven:

Come out of her, My people, so that you will not share in her sins [g]
or receive any of her plagues.
5 For her sins are piled up [B] to heaven, [h] and God has remembered her crimes.
6 Pay her back the way she also paid, [i] and double it according to her works. [j]
In the cup in which she mixed, [k] mix a double portion for her.
7 As much as she glorified herself and lived luxuriously, give her that much torment and grief,
for she says in her heart,
“I sit as a queen;
I am not a widow,
and I will never see grief.” [l] 8 For this reason her plagues will come in one day [m] — death and grief and famine.
She will be burned up with fire,
because the Lord God who judges her is mighty.

The World Mourns Babylon's Fall

9 The kings of the earth who have committed sexual immorality and lived luxuriously with her will weep and mourn over her when they see the smoke of her burning. 10 They will stand far off in fear of her torment, saying:

Woe, woe, the great city,
Babylon, the mighty city!
For in a single hour [n]
your judgment has come.

11 The merchants of the earth will also weep and mourn over her, because no one buys their merchandise any longer — 12 merchandise of gold, silver, precious stones, and pearls; fine fabrics of linen, purple, silk, and scarlet; all kinds of fragrant wood products; objects of ivory; objects of expensive wood, brass, [C] iron, and marble; 13 cinnamon, spice, [o, D] incense, myrrh, [E] and frankincense; wine, olive oil, fine wheat flour, and grain; cattle and sheep; horses and carriages; and slaves [F] and human lives. [p, q]

14 The fruit you craved has left you.
All your splendid and glamorous things are gone;
they will never find them again.

15 The merchants of these things, who became rich from her, will stand far off in fear of her torment, weeping and mourning, 16 saying:

Woe, woe, the great city,
dressed in fine linen, purple, and scarlet, adorned with gold, precious stones, and pearls, 17 for in a single hour [r]
such fabulous wealth was destroyed!

And every shipmaster, seafarer, the sailors, and all who do business by sea, stood far off 18 as they watched the smoke from her burning and kept crying out:
"Who is like the great city? " [s] 19 They threw dust on their heads and kept crying out, weeping, and mourning: [t]

Woe, woe, the great city, [u]
where all those who have ships on the sea became rich from her wealth, for in a single hour [v] she was destroyed.
20 Rejoice over her, heaven, and you •saints , apostles, and prophets, [w]

because God has executed your judgment on her! [G]

The Finality of Babylon's Fall

21 Then a mighty angel [x] picked up a stone like a large millstone and threw it into the sea, saying:

In this way, Babylon the great city will be thrown down violently [y] and never be found again. [z] 22 The sound of harpists, musicians, flutists, and trumpeters
will never be heard in you again; [a] no craftsman of any trade will ever be found in you again;
the sound of a mill
will never be heard in you again; 23 the light of a lamp will never shine in you again;
and the voice of a groom and bride will never be heard in you again. [b] All this will happen because your merchants were the nobility of the earth, because all the nations were deceived
by your sorcery, [c] 24 and the blood of prophets and saints, and of all those slaughtered on earth,
was found in you. [H, d]

Celebration in Heaven

19 After this I heard something like the loud voice of a vast multitude in heaven, saying:

•Hallelujah ! [a]
Salvation, glory, and power belong to our God, 2 because His judgments are true [b] and righteous, [c] because He has judged the notorious prostitute who corrupted the earth with her sexual immorality;
and He has avenged the blood of His •slaves that was on her hands. [d]
3 A second time they said:
Hallelujah!
Her smoke ascends forever and ever! [e]
4 Then the 24 elders and the four living creatures fell down and worshiped God, [f] who is seated on the throne, saying:

•Amen ! Hallelujah! [g]

5 A voice came from the throne, saying:
Praise our God,
all His slaves, who fear Him,
both small and great! [h]

Marriage of the Lamb Announced

6 Then I heard something like the voice of a vast multitude, like the sound of cascading waters, [i] and like the rumbling of loud thunder, saying:

Hallelujah, because our Lord God, the Almighty, has begun to reign!
7 Let us be glad, rejoice, and give Him glory, [j]
because the marriage of the Lamb has come, and His wife has prepared herself.
8 She was given fine linen to wear, bright and pure. [k]

For the fine linen represents the righteous acts of the •saints . [l]

9 Then he [m] said to me, [n] "Write: Those invited to the marriage feast [o] of the Lamb are fortunate!" He also said to me, "These words of God are true." 10 Then I fell at his feet to worship him, but he said to me, "Don't do that! I am a fellow slave with you and your brothers who have the testimony about [A] Jesus. [p] Worship God, because the testimony about Jesus is the spirit of prophecy." [B]

The Rider on a White Horse

11 Then I saw heaven opened, [q] and there was a white horse. Its rider is called Faithful and True, [r] and He judges and makes war in righteousness. [s] 12 His eyes were like a fiery flame, and many crowns [C] were on His head. He had a name written that no one knows except Himself. [t] 13 He wore a robe stained with blood, [D,] [u] and His name is the Word of God. [v] 14 The armies that were in heaven followed Him on white horses, wearing pure white linen. 15 A sharp [w] sword [x] came from His mouth, so that He might strike the nations with it. [y] He will shepherd [E] them with an iron scepter. [z] He will also trample the winepress of the fierce anger of God, [a] the Almighty. 16 And He has a name written on His robe and on His thigh:

KING OF KINGS
AND LORD OF LORDS. [b]

The Beast and His Armies Defeated

17 Then I saw an angel standing on [F] the sun, and he cried out in a loud voice, saying to all the birds flying high overhead, "Come, gather together for the great supper of God, 18 so that you may eat the flesh of kings, the flesh of commanders, the flesh of mighty men, the flesh of horses and of their riders, and the flesh of everyone, both free and slave, small and great.” [c]

19 Then I saw the beast, the kings of the earth, and their armies [d] gathered together to wage war against the rider on the horse and against His army. 20 But the beast was taken prisoner, and along with him the false prophet, who had performed the signs in his presence. He deceived those who accepted the mark of the beast and those who worshiped his image with these signs. [e] Both of them were thrown alive into the lake of fire that burns with sulfur. [f] 21 The rest were killed with the sword that came from the mouth of the rider on the horse, and all the birds were filled with their flesh.

Satan Bound

20 Then I saw an angel coming down from heaven with the key to the •abyss [a] and a great chain in his hand. [2] He seized the dragon, that ancient serpent who is the Devil and Satan, [b, c] and bound [d] him for 1,000 years. [3] He threw him into the abyss, closed it, and put a seal on it [e] so that he would no longer deceive the nations [f] until the 1,000 years were completed. After that, he must be released for a short time.

The Saints Reign with the Messiah [4] Then I saw thrones, and people seated on them who were given authority to judge. [g] I also saw the people [A, h] who had been beheaded [i] because of their testimony about Jesus [j] and because of God's word, who had not worshiped the beast or his image, and who had not accepted the mark on their foreheads or their hands. [k] They came to life [l] and reigned with the •Messiah for 1,000 years. [5] The rest of the dead did not come to life until the 1,000 years were completed. This is the first resurrection. [6] Blessed [m] and holy is the one who shares in the first resurrection! The second death [n] has no power [B] over them, but they will be priests of God and of the Messiah, and they will reign with Him for 1,000 years. [o]

Satanic Rebellion Crushed

7 When the 1,000 years are completed, Satan will be released from his prison
8 and will go out to deceive the nations at the four corners of the earth, [p] Gog and Magog, to gather them for battle. [q] Their number is like the sand of the sea.
9 They came up over the surface of the earth and surrounded the encampment of the •saints , the beloved city. Then fire came down from heaven [r] and consumed them. [s] 10 The Devil who deceived them was thrown into the lake of fire and sulfur where the beast and the false prophet are, [t] and they will be tormented day and night forever and ever. [u]

The Great White Throne Judgment

11 Then I saw a great white throne and One seated on it. Earth and heaven fled from His presence, and no place was found for them. [v] 12 I also saw the dead, the great and the small, standing before the throne, and books were opened. [w] Another book was opened, which is the book of life, [x] and the dead were judged according to their works [y] by what was written in the books.

13 Then the sea gave up its dead, and Death and •Hades [z] gave up their dead; all [C] were judged according to their works. 14 Death and Hades were thrown into the lake of fire. [a] This is the second death, the lake of fire. [b] 15 And anyone not found written in the book of life was thrown into the lake of fire.

The New Creation

21 Then I saw a new heaven and a new earth, [a] for the first heaven and the first earth had passed away, and the sea no longer existed. [b] 2 I also saw the Holy City, new Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven from God, [c] prepared like a bride adorned for her husband. [d]

3 Then I heard a loud voice from the throne: [e]

Look! God's dwelling [A] is with humanity, and He will live with them.
They will be His people, [f] and God Himself will be with them and be their God. [g]
4 He will wipe away every tear from their eyes. [h]
Death will no longer exist; [i] grief, crying, and pain will exist no longer, [j]
because the previous things [B] have passed away. [k]

5 Then the One seated on the throne said, "Look! I am making everything new." He also said, "Write, because these words [l] are faithful and true." [m] 6 And He said to me, "It is done! [n] I am the •Alpha and the Omega, [o] the Beginning and the End. [p] I will give water as a gift to the thirsty [q] from the spring of life. [r] 7 The victor [s] will inherit these things, and I will be his God, and he will be My son. [t] 8 But the cowards, unbelievers, [u] vile, murderers, sexually immoral, sorcerers, idolaters, and all liars — their share will be in the lake that burns with fire and sulfur, [v] which is the second death."

The New Jerusalem

9 Then one of the seven angels, who had held the seven bowls filled with the seven last plagues, [w] came and spoke with me: “Come, I will show you the bride, the wife of the Lamb.” 10 He then carried me away in the Spirit [C, x] to a great and high mountain [y] and showed me the holy city, Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven from God, 11 arrayed with God’s glory. [z] Her radiance was like a very precious stone, like a jasper stone, bright as crystal. 12 The city had a massive high wall, with 12 gates. Twelve angels were at the gates; the names of the 12 tribes of Israel’s sons were inscribed on the gates. 13 There were three gates on the east, three gates on the north, three gates on the south, and three gates on the west. [a] 14 The city wall had 12 foundations, and the 12 names of the Lamb’s 12 apostles were on the foundations.

15 The one who spoke with me had a gold measuring rod [b] to measure the city, its gates, and its wall. [c] 16 The city is laid out in a square; its length and width are the same. He measured the city with the rod at 12,000 stadia. [D] Its length, width, and height are equal. 17 Then he measured its wall, 144 •cubits according to human measurement, which the angel used. 18 The building material of its wall was jasper, and the city was pure gold like clear glass.

19 The foundations of the city wall were adorned with every kind of precious stone: [d]

the first foundation jasper,
the second sapphire,
the third chalcedony,
the fourth emerald, 20 the fifth sardonyx,
the sixth carnelian,
the seventh chrysolite,
the eighth beryl,
the ninth topaz,
the tenth chrysoprase,
the eleventh jacinth,
the twelfth amethyst.

21 The 12 gates are 12 pearls; each individual gate was made of a single pearl.
The broad street [E] of the city was pure gold, like transparent glass.

22 I did not see a sanctuary in it, because the Lord God the Almighty and the Lamb are its sanctuary. 23 The city does not need the sun or the moon to shine on it, because God's glory illuminates it, and its lamp is the Lamb. e 24 The nations f will walk in its light, g and the kings of the earth will bring their glory into it.
h, i 25 Each day its gates will never close because it will never be night there.
26 They will bring the glory and honor of the nations into it. j, k 27 Nothing profane will ever enter it: l no one who does what is vile or false, but only those written in the Lamb's book of life. m

The Source of Life

22 Then he showed me the river [a] of living water, sparkling like crystal, flowing from the throne of God and of the Lamb [b] 2 down the middle of the broad street of the city. The tree of life [A] was on both sides of the river, bearing 12 kinds of fruit, producing its fruit every month. [c] The leaves of the tree are for healing the nations, 3 and there will no longer be any curse. [d] The throne of God and of the Lamb will be in the city, [B] and His •slaves will serve Him. 4 They will see His face, [e] and His name will be on their foreheads. [f] 5 Night will no longer exist, [g] and people will not need lamplight or sunlight, because the Lord God will give them light. And they will reign forever and ever.

The Time Is Near

6 Then he said to me, “These words are faithful and true. [h] And the Lord, the God of the spirits of the prophets, [i] has sent His angel to show His slaves what must quickly take place.” [C, j]

7 “Look, I am coming quickly! [k] The one who keeps the prophetic words of this book is blessed.” [l]

8 I, John, am the one who heard and saw these things. When I heard and saw them, I fell down to worship at the feet of the angel who had shown them to me.
9 But he said to me, “Don’t do that! I am a fellow slave with you, your brothers the prophets, and those who keep the words of this book. Worship God.” [m] 10 He also said to me, “Don’t seal the prophetic words of this book, because the time is near. [n] 11 Let the unrighteous go on in unrighteousness; let the filthy go on being made filthy; let the righteous go on in righteousness; and let the holy go on being made holy.” [o]

12 “Look! I am coming quickly, and My reward is with Me [p] to repay each person according to what he has done. [q] 13 I am the •Alpha and the Omega, [r] the First and the Last, [s] the Beginning and the End. [t]

14 “Blessed [u] are those who wash their robes, [v] so that they may have the right to the tree of life and may enter the city by the gates. 15 Outside are the dogs, the sorcerers, the sexually immoral, the murderers, the idolaters, and everyone who loves and practices lying. [w]

16 “I, Jesus, have sent My angel to attest these things to you [x] for the churches. I am the Root [y] and the Offspring of David, [z] the Bright Morning Star.” [a]

17 Both the Spirit and the bride say, “Come! ” Anyone who hears should say, “Come! ” And the one who is thirsty should come. Whoever desires should take the living water as a gift. [b]

18 I testify to everyone who hears the prophetic words of this book: If anyone adds to them, God will add to him the plagues that are written in this book.
19 And if anyone takes away from the words of this prophetic book, God will take away his share of the tree of life and the holy city, written in this book. [c]

•Amen ! Come, Lord Jesus! [e]

21 The grace of the Lord Jesus [f] be with all the •saints . [g] Amen. [h]

Introduction

Sunrise on Patmos, the small island in the Aegean Sea where John received the Revelation from the risen Christ. The early church historian Eusebius (A.D. 260-340) wrote that John was sent to Patmos by Emperor Domitian in A.D. 95 and released after one and a half years.

The resurrected, glorified Son of Man (Jesus Christ) revealed Himself to the apostle John, who had been imprisoned "on the island called Patmos" (1:9). Christ's twofold purpose was (1) to "unveil" a spiritual diagnosis for seven of the churches in Asia Minor with which John was familiar (chaps. 2-3), and (2) to reveal to John a series of visions setting forth events and factors related to the end times (chaps. 4-22).

Circumstances of Writing Author: The traditional view holds that the author of Revelation is the apostle John, who wrote the Fourth Gospel and the three letters of John. Evidences for this view include: (1) the writer referred to himself as "John" (1:4,9; 22:8); (2) he had personal relationships with the seven churches of Asia Minor (1:4,11; chaps. 2-3); (3) his circumstances at the time of writing (1:9) matched those of John the apostle (who was placed in Asia Minor from about A.D. 70 to 100 by reliable historical sources from the second century A.D.); and (4) the saturation of the book with OT imagery and echoes implies a Jewish writer, like John, operating in overwhelmingly Gentile Asia Minor.

Background: The initial audience that received the book of Revelation was a group of seven local churches in southwest Asia Minor (1:11; chaps. 2-3). Some of these congregations were experiencing persecution (2:9-10,13), probably under the Roman emperor Domitian (ruled A.D. 81-96). Others had doctrinal and practical problems (2:6,13-15,20-23). Also behind these surface problems was the backdrop of unseen but powerful spiritual warfare (2:10,14,24; 3:9).

Though some scholars have dated the book later and a few have dated it earlier, commonly held dates of Revelation among evangelical scholars are the mid-90s and the late 60s of the first century A.D. The mid-90s view is the stronger view, and it is held by majority opinion. Each view gives a different account of the persecution portrayed in the letters to the churches (2:9-10,13). Substantial historical evidence shows that some of the churches were persecuted intensely by Nero in the late 60s. But the reference in 17:10 to seven kings, five of whom have fallen, supports a date in the mid-90s, during the reign of Domitian.

While a case can be made for a late-60s date based on the Nero-related inferences and a possible reference to the Jerusalem temple in 11:1-2 (which may imply that the temple had not yet been destroyed, as it was by the Romans in A.D. 70), all other factors favor a date of about A.D. 95. Most notable among these factors is the tradition that John the apostle was exiled to Patmos during a period of intensifying local persecution of Christians by the Emperor Domitian (ruled A.D. 81-96).

Message and Purpose Much of the book of Revelation focuses on events at the end of the age (eschatology), more so than any other book in the Bible. But it also focuses on practical choices that believers and unbelievers must make in the course of their lives that have far-reaching consequences at the end.

Contribution to the Bible The book of Revelation provides an almost complete overview of theology. There is much in this book about Christ, mankind and sin, the people of God (both the church and Israel), holy angels, and Satan and the demons. There is important material on God's power and tri-unity (i.e., Trinity), plus aspects of the work of the Holy Spirit and the nature of Scripture.

Structure

The book of Revelation previews its sequential structure in 1:19: "Therefore write what you have seen, what is, and what will take place after this." From the apostle John's vantage point in being commanded to "write," he had already seen the vision of the exalted Son of Man (chap. 1). Next, he was told to "write" letters to the seven churches, telling each the state of their spiritual health (chaps. 2-3). Lastly comes the body of the book (4:1-22:5), which covers all the events that would "take place after this."

Timeline

Study Notes 1:1 Revelation, which means “unveiling,” translates the Greek word apokalypsis. Its use here indicates that the book of Revelation is apocalyptic literature, like Daniel in the OT. The revelation of Jesus Christ could mean the unveiling about Jesus, the unveiling by Him, or both. His slaves refers to all Christians.

1:2 Standing true to God’s word and to the testimony about Jesus Christ caused John to be exiled to the island of Patmos (v. 9). Christians have been persecuted throughout church history for their fidelity to Christ. Only by failing to stand do we escape persecution.

1:1, 3 Must quickly take place and the time is near have been used by critics to claim that Revelation’s prophecies have failed since they have not been fulfilled in the 1,900+ years since the book was written. However, Christ's imminent return does not carry with it a timetable but communicates a sense of urgency that is an integral part of the NT message as expressed by John the Baptist, Jesus, and the apostles. Christ's first coming marked the time when history entered its last phase before eternity. Paul expressed the urgency this entails: "Look, now is the acceptable time; now is the day of salvation" (2Co 6:2).

1:3 The reading of this prophecy carries with it a promise of blessing. The reading in view is not just mental. The reader must also keep (i.e., "take to heart" and apply) what is written. This is the first of seven significant "blessing" statements or beatitudes in the book of Revelation (14:13; 16:15; 19:9; 20:6; 22:7,14). Seven, the number of perfection, will recur throughout this book.

1:4 The naming of the author and audience, plus a characteristic greeting (grace and peace), indicate that Revelation has similar form as other letters of the NT. It is not some exotic, otherworldly work that cannot readily be understood. The One who is, who was, and who is coming (v. 8) means that God not only exists now, but always has existed and always will. The seven spirits before His throne may refer to: (1) "the angels of the seven churches" (v. 20; chaps. 2-3), (2) other angels seen in the book (e.g., 8:2), or (3) the fullness of the Holy Spirit described in Is 11:2.

1:5-6 Jesus is the faithful witness (martus, the Gk word from which we get martyr). The firstborn from the dead looks back to His resurrection, the guarantee of the future resurrection of all believers and unbelievers (20:4-5; 1Co 15:20,23). Though Christ has all the authority to be universal ruler now (Mt 28:18), He will not fully exert it until His second coming (Rv 19:11-21). Set us free from our sins by His blood does not mean we are automatically saved by Christ's death on the cross, as if all humanity is saved regardless of their beliefs. Revelation stresses the need for repentance (9:20-21) and a faith-response to the gospel (14:6-7). The wording here may mean that believers are already a kingdom and priests in this lifetime (1Pt 2:9).

1:7 This collage of Scripture from Dn 7:13 and Zch 12:10 expresses the theme for Revelation. The reference to mourn is sometimes understood as the response of those for whom it is too late to be saved. But the context of Zch 12:10 indicates the mourning will be true saving repentance, even for those who pierced Him (i.e., the Jews; see notes at Rv 7:4-8 and 11:13).

1:8 Alpha and Omega are the first and last letters of the Greek alphabet, emphasizing that God is the beginning and the end. On the One who is . . . and who is coming, see note at verse 4.

1:9 Tradition indicates the apostle John was exiled by the Roman emperor Domitian to a penal colony on the island called Patmos, about 40 miles southwest of Ephesus in the Aegean Sea, in about A.D. 95. He was released sometime after Domitian's death in 96. John emphasized being a partner in tribulation (i.e., "suffering, distress"; see 2:9). This is not a reference to the unparalleled time of difficulty just before the second coming of Christ.

1:10 In the Spirit refers to the exalted spiritual state that John was in as he received the visions of the Apocalypse. The Lord's day is likely a phrase referring to the first day of the week—Sunday, the day of resurrection—which had become the day of worship for Christians (Ac 20:7; 1Co 16:2).

1:11 Some interpreters believe that Revelation was written as a "book" (i.e., in a codex format), but it is much more likely that the Greek word here (biblion) should be translated scroll. The seven local churches (see note at 2:1-3:22) addressed in Revelation were chosen from among all the churches in Asia Minor to serve as examples of the kinds of realities playing out in church life. These seven were obvious choices since they were located on the roads of a circular postal route, giving them prominence due to their ease of access.

1:12 The seven gold lampstands are the seven churches (v. 11; chaps. 2-3).

1:13-18 John had seen Jesus Christ in a similar glorified state on the Mount of Transfiguration (Mt 17:2). He had also seen His resurrection body after He was raised (Jn 20; Ac 1:2-11). John was also acquainted with the rich OT images of the glorified Son of Man (see Dn 7:13) that this vision on Patmos recalled.

1:14 The similes of the Son of Man's head and hair being white like wool, depicting wisdom and purity, and His eyes being like a fiery flame, picturing piercing holiness, fuse the vision of the Ancient of Days (Dn 7:9) and Jesus' appearance on the Mount of Transfiguration (Mt 17:2).

1:15 Unlike the feet of the statue in Dn 2:33-35, which crumbled, the description like fine bronze . . . fired in a furnace speaks of strength and stability. A voice like the sound of cascading waters would have riveted John's attention as he was imprisoned on an island where powerful waves crashed ashore.

1:16 The seven stars are the angels of the seven churches (v. 20). The sharp double-edged sword that came from His mouth symbolizes the power of the Word of God to judge (Heb 4:12). The Son of Man's face . . . shining like the sun was another reminder to John of what he saw with his own eyes on the Mount of Transfiguration (Mt 17:2).

1:17 That John fell at His feet was an act of fear and awe at the Lord revealing Himself so profoundly to mankind (Dn 8:17). John's reaction shows he experienced the glory of Christ more fully here than on the Mount of Transfiguration or in His post-resurrection appearances.

1:18 Christ's authority over the keys of death and Hades was stated in His declaration that He would found the church (Mt 16:18). This will be exercised when death and Hades are emptied and then destroyed at the great white throne judgment (Rv 20:11-15).

1:19 The risen Christ here commanded John to write, just as in verse 11. What you have seen is the vision of verses 12-18. What is refers to the present state of affairs in the churches in chapters 2-3. What will take place after this refers to the body of the book (chaps. 4-22), which begins with "after this" (4:1).

1:20 The Greek word translated secret is musterion , which speaks of something formerly unknown which has now been revealed. The overwhelming usage of the Greek word aggeloi in the book of Revelation is in reference to spirit beings and not human messengers (v. 1; 5:2). Perhaps the angels of the seven churches spoken of here functioned like so-called guardian angels for members of those churches (Heb 1:14).

2:1-3 : 22 It is likely that these seven churches were chosen to receive letters because of the lessons they provided for "all the churches" (2:23), not because they represent seven stages in church history as is held by some interpreters. Yet in any one historical period, it could be that the majority of churches reflect realities found in one of the seven churches. In general, each letter includes: (1) a characteristic of the risen Christ drawn from the vision in 1:12-18, (2) commendation of the church (though not the churches at Sardis and Laodicea), (3) criticism of the church's shortcomings (though not of the churches at Smyrna and Philadelphia) and how to correct them, (4) a command to "listen to what the Spirit says to the churches," and (5) a commitment to the persevering spiritual "victor" (Gk nikao; "to win, conquer").

The Seven Churches of the Revelation 2:1 On the angel of the church*, see note at 1:20.* Ephesus was one of the largest and most powerful cities in the Roman Empire. It was devoted to the worship of Artemis (Lat Diana ; Ac 19:28), the fertility goddess, and the emperor of Rome, who was considered a god. The church at Ephesus was apparently planted by Priscilla and Aquila around A.D. 52. Paul ministered there for two or three years (Ac 20:31), and used the city as a home base for the evangelization of the region (Ac 19:8-10). This is almost certainly how the other six churches in Revelation 2-3 were planted. On the seven stars and the seven gold lampstands*, see 1:20.*

2:2-4 The church at Ephesus abandoned the love they had at first, meaning their love for God. The greatest commandment is to love the Lord with all one's being (Dt 6:5; Mt 22:36-38).

2:5 Having fallen does not mean losing your salvation, though ceasing to love God is a serious spiritual matter requiring soul-searching repentance (i.e., a change of mind and heart, implying a related change of behavior). If they did not repent, Christ would cause the church to close (remove your lampstand).

2:6 The practices of the Nicolaitans are explained in the letter to the church at Pergamum (vv. 14-15). Their "practices" bore resemblance to the problem in the church at Thyatira (vv. 20-21,24).

2:7 Anyone who has an ear should listen echoes Jesus' warning to His hearers at the end of the parable of the sower (Mt 13:9). Most likely victor refers to faithful and obedient believers. In this context, failure to be a victor means losing spiritual rewards, not losing salvation. Adam and Eve were driven out of the garden of Eden so they could not eat from the tree of life (Gn 3:22-24) and thereby live there forever in sin. The tree of life in view here will be in the new heavens and earth (Rv 22:2), which is what is meant by God's paradise.

2:8 On the angel of the church, see note at 1:20. Like Ephesus, Smyrna, 35 miles to the north, was a harbor city. Its large Jewish population bitterly opposed Christianity. When Domitian issued an edict declaring emperor worship mandatory for all inhabitants of the Roman Empire, he exempted the Jews from this requirement. The Jews did not want this religious freedom extended to Christians. The church in Smyrna was likely founded during Paul's third missionary journey (Ac 19). On the First and the Last and the One who was dead and came to life, see notes at 1:5-6 and 1:8.

2:9-10 The church at Smyrna, against whom Christ voiced no criticism, was suffering through spiritual warfare. A local synagogue of Jews was engaged in slander that resulted in church members being jailed for a short time (10 days). All of this represented a test of their faith. The phrase those who say they are Jews and are not does not deny the Jewish bloodlines of the persecutors. Rather, it mirrors Paul's assertion that, ultimately, Jewishness is not just outward but inward, related to the "circumcision is of the heart" by faith (Rm 2:28-29). The crown of life is also referred to in Jms 1:12, where it is received by those who love the Lord and endure trials, probably at "the judgment seat of Christ" (2Co 5:10).

2:11 On anyone who has an ear, see note at verse 7. The second death is the lake of fire (20:14), the place of eternal torment for the Devil, the beast, the false prophet (20:10), and all the non-elect (20:15). On the meaning of victor, see note at 2:7.

2:12-13 On the angel of the church, see note at 1:20. In the first century A.D. , the city of Pergamum, 50 miles north of Smyrna, was the leading religious center of Asia Minor. Like Smyrna, Pergamum was a center of emperor worship, and Christians were persecuted harshly for their refusal to engage in such worship. This refusal was deemed disloyal and unpatriotic by non-Christians. This is why Jesus called Pergamum the place where Satan's throne is. The situation for Christians in Pergamum was even worse than at Smyrna. A faithful man named Antipas had already been killed. On the sharp, double-edged sword, see note at 1:16.

2:14-15 A viewpoint resembling the teaching of Balaam in the OT (Nm 22-25), which is probably linked to the teaching of the Nicolaitans, had a strong foothold in the church.

2:16 The sword of My mouth is the sword of verse 12. The clear-cut duty of the church at Pergamum was to combat the false viewpoints in their midst (vv. 14-15) or else they would be judged by the Lord Jesus.

2:17 On anyone who has an ear see note at verse 7. The reference to the victor (see note at v. 7) receiving hidden manna is intended to remind readers that Israel's sin in eating food sacrificed to idols in Numbers 25 was that much worse because God was still giving them manna, even as He was still caring for His church in Pergamum. The white stone and new name may be related to: (1) victory in the ancient Greek athletic games, which allowed an athlete to retire permanently, or (2) entrance to a community feast.

2:18 On the angel of the church, see note at 1:20. Thyatira was 30 miles southeast of Pergamum on the Lycus River. Each of its trade guilds was devoted to a patron god or goddess, and social events centered on their worship. The pressure for Christians to participate in this idolatrous lifestyle, both for economic and social reasons, was great. The letter to Thyatira is the longest of the seven messages and the centerpiece of all seven. This is odd, considering that Thyatira was the smallest and least consequential city of the group. Also, closer study shows that the spiritual battle being waged at Thyatira is parallel to the battle to be waged in the end times (Rv 14-18). Christ, for the only time in Revelation, is called the Son of God. On eyes . . . like a fiery flame and feet . . . like fine bronze, see notes at 1:14 and 1:15.

2:19 Unlike the church at Ephesus, the church at Thyatira was not guilty of a lack of love. Significant spiritual growth was taking place.

2:20 Jezebel involved her followers in the same sins as those that infected the church at Pergamum—sexual immorality and eating meat sacrificed to idols. These sins are mentioned in reverse order from the letter to the church at Pergamum (v. 14). This reversal is a literary device that calls even more attention to the connection between the two. "Jezebel" was likely a nickname recalling the idolatrous queen of the northern king of Israel in 1 and 2 Kings.

2:21-23 Great tribulation (Gk thlipsis megaley) is used here not for the time of unparalleled suffering just before Christ's second coming, as in Rv 7:14 (Dn 12:1; Mt 24:21), but for a time of intense affliction of an unknown nature. Its use foreshadows the time of great affliction to come upon the entire earth (Rv 3:10; 7:14). The children of Jezebel are not her literal children, but spiritual "children" who have committed themselves to her false teaching. This group will be killed with the plague, a foreshadowing of widespread death by plague later in the book (e.g., 6:8). The strong parallels between Jezebel and Babylon, the great harlot of the latter part of the book (16:17-19:5), as well as the startling usage of "great tribulation," suggests Jezebel was a first-century preview of Babylon the Great.

2:24 The viewpoint and lifestyle associated with Jezebel (v. 20) are now unmasked as the deep things of Satan, meaning that this false belief and behavior originated with the Devil.

2:25 The other members of the church at Thyatira not in league with Jezebel were asked to hold on to the faithful acts Christ had commended in verse 19.

2:26-27 By use of a messianic prophecy from Ps 2:9, Christ promises that the victor will have authority over the nations, which means ruling with Him after His second coming (20:4,6).

2:28 The morning star is a symbol of the Messiah in Nm 24:17. Christ calls Himself the Bright Morning Star in Rv 22:16.

3:1 On the angel of the church, see note at 1:20. Sardis, 30 miles southeast of Thyatira, was one of the most ancient cities in Asia Minor, founded around 1200 B.C. In A.D. 17 an earthquake destroyed Sardis (and Philadelphia; see note at v. 7), but it was later rebuilt with the help of Emperor Augustus. The people of Sardis were fascinated with death and immortality, observing the fertility cycles of nature and the worship of Artemis, the fertility goddess. On the seven spirits of God, see note at 1:4. On the seven stars, see note at 1:16. There is no praise for the church in Sardis, and the Lord's criticism is haunting. Spiritually they were as good as dead.

3:2 This letter is intended by the Lord as an urgent spiritual wake-up call. If the church at Sardis did not strengthen what remained spiritually, they would die, because they had not followed through on the works that honored God.

3:3 If the church at Sardis did not remember God's blessings and repent of their failures, Christ would come like a thief in swift and severe judgment. Twice in the city's history, it had been captured because it failed to watch out for its enemies.

3:4-5 A remnant of a few people in Sardis had remained faithful to the Lord. To be dressed in white was to don the garb of the victor (see note at 2:7) whose lifestyle was worthy both of heaven (7:9) and of returning with Christ at His second coming (19:14). The book of life contains the name of each person who is eternally elect (13:8; 20:15). These will prove themselves victors, and Christ will never erase their names from the book of life.

3:6 On anyone who has an ear, see note at 2:7.

3:7 On the angel of the church, see note at 1:20. Philadelphia, 40 miles southeast of Sardis, suffered long-term effects from the earthquake of A.D. 17. Thus, the people planned for the future with earthquakes in mind. Although there is little extrabiblical evidence for a Jewish community in the city, the letter indicates a situation similar to that of Smyrna. Nothing is known of the origin of the church, but there was a connection with Paul's ministry in Ephesus, like the other six local churches. The phrases the key of David and no one opens echo Is 22:22 and speak of Christ's authority in the household of God.

3:8 Christ commended the faithful works of this small congregation, in spite of their limited strength. The open door that no one is able to close opens to heaven and God's kingdom (Col 4:3-4).

3:9 On synagogue of Satan and who claim to be Jews and are not, see note at 2:9-10. These phrases are in reverse order from 2:9, implying there is a key point of comparison in the two letters. It is likely that the brief and local "tribulation" faced by the church at Smyrna (2:10) contrasts with the promise to the church at Philadelphia that it would be kept from the worldwide "hour of testing" (3:10).

3:10 The hour of testing refers to "the great tribulation" (7:14). Though the wording may sound like a reference to all who will inhabit the world at that time, those who live on the earth ("earth dwellers" from this point on in the notes) is a phrase used repeatedly in Revelation (6:10; 8:13; 11:10; 13:8), speaking of the non-elect, "whose names have not been written in the book of life" (17:8). To "keep . . . from the hour of testing" has been taken to mean: (1) removed before the time of tribulation, or (2) supernaturally protected within the tribulation. Since the word "hour" suggests a period of time, and the purpose of the hour of testing is to test the non-elect "earth dwellers" rather than believers, it seems more likely that believers will be removed before the hour of great tribulation begins.

3:11 On coming quickly, see note at 1:1,3. To hold on to what you have appears to refer to the faithfulness of the church, described in verse 8.

3:12 The victor (see note at 2:7) is promised a permanent place in the sanctuary in God's eternal city, the new Jerusalem. This "sanctuary" is actually the Lord Himself and the Lamb (21:2,22). Christ's new name may refer to "a name . . . that no one knows except Himself" (19:12).

3:13 On anyone who has an ear see note at 2:7.

3:14 On the angel of the church, see note at 1:20. Laodicea, 45 miles southeast of Philadelphia and 90 miles east of Ephesus, was an important trade center. Like Philadelphia, it lay in a region prone to earthquakes. The city had to bring in its water supply through an aqueduct. This made it vulnerable to drought and disruption by enemies. The Laodicean church was probably planted by Epaphras (Col 1:7), along with the churches of Hierapolis and Colossae, during Paul's three-year ministry at Ephesus (Ac 19:8-10; 20:31). Amen is a transliteration of the Hebrew word for "truth." Being the Originator of God's creation means Jesus was the member of the Trinity who was the agent of creation (Jn 1:3; Col 1:16).

Ruins of Roman arches at Laodicea, a city of Asia well known for its wealth. In A.D. 60, Laodicea experienced a devastating earthquake and was able to rebuild without relying on financial assistance from Rome. Lydia, one of the original members of the church at Philippi, was a businesswoman from Laodicea. The risen Christ knew Laodicea well. He reminded them of their spiritual poverty and called on them to repent (3:14-22).

3:15-16 Because the water in Laodicea was piped in, it was neither cold and refreshing nor hot and therapeutic. The lukewarm water was thus not useful. The spiritual worthlessness of the church in Laodicea was nauseating to Christ (I am going to vomit you out of My mouth).

3:17-19 Because many believers in the Laodicean church were rich and arrogant, they were completely blind to the fact that they were spiritually wretched and naked. The only way Christ would give them spiritual sight and make them spiritually rich and properly dressed was for them to repent (see note at 2:5) and be committed to Him, no longer going through the motions spiritually (i.e., being lukewarm). As many as I love, I . . . discipline echoes Pr 3:11-12, which is cited in Heb 12:6.

3:20 The Lord had been pushed to the outside of the church at Laodicea, and He was now seeking to reenter through their repentance (opens the door). The phrases I stand at the door and knock and if anyone . . . opens the door, I will come in may be interpreted one of three ways: (1) if all members of the congregation were actually unbelievers, this would be an evangelistic invitation; (2) if all members were believers, it serves as a call to renewed fellowship with Christ (i.e., pictured by a shared fellowship meal: have dinner with Him); or (3) if the congregation was mixed, this is a picturesque way of expressing both kinds of invitations (to salvation and restored fellowship).

3:21 On victor, see note at 2:7. The right to sit with Christ on His throne goes beyond His promise to the apostles in Mt 19:28 and looks to His reign on earth in Rv 20:4-6. The phrase sat down with My Father on His throne looks ahead to the heavenly throne room in chapters 4-5.

4:1 -2 The phrases after this and what must take place after this signal the beginning of the body of the book (4:1-22:5) spoken of in 1:19, in the wording, "what will take place after this." Even though John was told to come up here, it is not clear whether: (1) he was actually taken up into heaven (with the same command in 11:12 the two witnesses were taken to heaven), or (2) he was still "in the Spirit" (see note at 1:10) on the isle of Patmos (1:9-10). What he saw of the heavenly throne room in chapters 4-5 is trustworthy either way, since the vision came from the Lord.

4:3-4 Jasper is an opaque jewel also mentioned in the description of the new Jerusalem (21:11,19). Carnelian stone is a vivid red color. A rainbow is God's covenant sign that He will never again judge the earth by a flood destroying all humanity (Gn 9:8-17). The Apocalypse tells of God's just judgment of the world by other means. The 24 elders could refer to angels, but since there were elders as leaders in both Israel (Nm 11:16) and the church (Ti 1:5), it is more likely that 12 of the 24 represent the tribes of Israel and the other 12 the apostles of Christ, previewing the reference to the 12 tribes and 12 apostles in the new Jerusalem (21:12,14). Elsewhere in Revelation, white clothes and gold crowns make up the attire of victorious believers (3:5; 6:11; 7:9; 19:8,14).

4:5 Flashes of lightning . . . and thunder coming from God (the throne) represent the first mention in Revelation of phenomena that intensify and spill over from heaven to earth as part of God's just judgment (8:5; 11:19; 16:18,21). On the seven spirits of God, see note at 1:4.

4:6-7 The four living creatures resemble the cherubim in Ezekiel 1 and 10, though there are differences as well. Covered with eyes means that very few things escape the notice of these watchful angelic creatures. The imagery of the lion, calf, man, and eagle has strong linkage to Ezk 1:5-10 and may represent animate creation.

4:8 The mention of the creatures having six wings and the words holy, holy, holy echo the description of the seraphim in the heavenly throne room in Is 6:1-

3. On who was, who is, and who is coming, see note at 1:4.

4:11 The beginning point of worship is to recognize that God is completely worthy to be recognized for His unrivaled glory and honor and power, and His work as Creator and Sustainer of all things.

5:1 The right hand of God symbolizes power and authority. The phrase with writing on the inside and on the back echoes Ezk 2:9-10, where God showed the prophet a scroll with words written "on the front and back . . . of lamentation, mourning, and woe." The scroll John saw foretold woe (8:13; 9:12; 11:14), but it also disclosed God's perfect plan (symbolized by the seven seals) of judgment and the redemption of His creation, which will culminate in the end times. Because the outer edge of the scroll was sealed, the contents could only be seen when all seven seals were removed. Thus, as the seals are opened in chapter 6, what takes place is not the content of the entire scroll, but only those judgments that precede it being fully opened.

5:2-4 The apostle John was emotionally distraught because no one in heaven or on earth or under the earth was found worthy to open the scroll and read the destiny of the world.

5:5-7 Speaking of Jesus as the Lion from the tribe of Judah echoes the messianic prophecy in Gn 49:9-10. Christ was able to open the scroll and its seven seals on the basis of an accomplished fact—His death on the cross like a slaughtered lamb (Is 53:7; Jn 1:29). On the four living creatures, see note at 4:6-7. On the elders, see note at 4:3-4. In the apocalyptic book of Daniel, horns stand for power and authority (Dn 7:8,20,24). On the seven spirits of God, see note at 1:4. God's sending of the seven spirits immediately after the description of the redemptive work of the Lamb (5:6) may preview "the eternal gospel" being preached climactically to the entire world in 14:6-7. The Lamb taking the scroll out of the right hand of the Father signifies a transfer of authority, allowing the Lamb to fulfill the contents of the scroll (i.e., the judgments and other events of the rest of the Apocalypse). For a parallel account, see Dn 7:13-14.

5:8 Believers' prayers are described as filling gold bowls before the throne of God. The "gold" emphasizes their reality and exceeding value to God. The word saints (Gk hagioi) means "holy ones." These are not elite and exceptional Christians. Instead, the NT uses this term for all believers in Christ (Rm 1:7).

5:9-10 The new song sung in heaven about Christ is inspired by His redemptive work, the shedding of His blood on the cross. The target group for redemption (described as every tribe . . . nation; cp. 7:9; 10:11; 11:9; 13:7; 14:6; 17:15, where the same terms are used in differing order) is the same group that is identified in the Great Commission: "all nations" (Mt 28:19). The reference to Christ's shed blood and the phrase a kingdom and priests echo Rv 1:5-6 and may be partially fulfilled in heaven in 7:15. The promise that they will reign on the earth is fulfilled in 20:6.

5:11-14 On the living creatures, see note at 4:6-7. On the elders, see note at 4:3-4. This scene looks ahead to the time when "every knee will bow . . . and every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father" (Php 2:10-11).

6:1-8 : 1 Some interpreters believe that the description of the unsealing of the scroll (5:1) is the beginning of the tribulation period. However, the scroll in the Lamb's hand (5:7) is not open for viewing until all seven seals have been removed. Six of the seals are removed in chapter 6. The two scenes in chapter 7 (7:1-8; 7:9-17) form an interlude prior to the removal of the seventh seal (8:1). Extensive parallelism exists between this section and Jesus' Olivet Discourse (Mt 24:4-14) describing "the beginning of birth pains" (a woman's early or false labor). If both passages refer to the same events and timing, it appears that the "unsealing" sequence in Rv 6:1-8:1 occurs before the tribulation period.

6:1-8 The lifting of the first four seals is portrayed in this section as four horsemen, an image likely drawn from Zch 1:7-11, though the colors of the horses are different. There is debate about whether any, or all, of what is pictured here has already taken place. However, no catastrophe has devastated "a fourth of the earth" since the time this prophecy was given (Rv 6:8).

6:1 , 3, 5, 7 It appears that the command "Come!" from each of the four living creatures sets in motion the dramatic effects unleashed by removing each of the seals.

6:2 Some have taken the horseman here as a description of Christ because of its similarity to Him at the second coming (19:11). All that can be said with certainty is that the bow indicates the horseman is a warrior and the crown shows that he is a king or ruler and that the description parallels Mt 24:5-6. The word for crown (Gk stephanos) differs from the many crowns (Gk diademata) of Jesus in Rv 19:12.

6:4 The description here strongly parallels Mt 24:6-7, with "wars and rumors of wars" and nations and kingdoms rising up against one another.

6:5-6 The apparent descriptions of famine conditions here would naturally follow the state of war portrayed in verses 2,4. A quart of wheat or barley was enough food for a person for one day. A denarius was a day's wage for the average worker (Mt 20:2). Thus, the greatly inflated cost of these necessities indicates a severe drought, though olive oil and wine are plentiful.

6:8 Hades was popularly known as the grave and resting place after Death (see note at 20:11-15). The text does not say that a fourth of the population of the earth was killed, but only that authority was given to "Death" and "Hades" over this proportion of the world, allowing them to kill freely.

6:9-11 The phrase under the altar and the mention of blood recall the sacrificial blood poured at the base of the altar in Ex 29:12. The people slaughtered may refer to believers killed during the removal of the first four seals (6:2,4,8) or generally to "the blood of prophets and saints, and of all those slaughtered on earth" (18:24). Their being killed because of God's word and their testimony for Christ is the same reason given for John's imprisonment on the island of Patmos (1:9). Since the "hour of testing" (i.e., the tribulation period; 3:10) is focused on the "earth dwellers," the delay here (rest a little while longer) implies the "hour of testing" has not yet begun. The Lord's just vengeance (Rm 12:19) for the martyrs begins in earnest in Rv 16:4-7 and is not completed until 19:2. On white robe, see note at 3:4-5. It is not known when the number of their fellow martyrs is completed.

6:12-17 The effects when the sixth seal is lifted from the scroll (sun turned black and moon became like blood) are very similar to those in Jl 2:28-31, which are said to occur just before the Day of the Lord (Jl 2:31). This is the same as the great day of the wrath of God the Father and the Lamb (vv. 16-17; Zph 1:14-15). Some think this is the time of the second coming of Christ because of the similarity in wording between certain aspects of the sixth seal and Mt 24:29-31. Because the exact same Greek word and form for come (elthen) is used in regard to the prophecy in Jd 14, which has a futuristic meaning, it is best to translate it here as "the great day of their wrath is (about to) come." The question and who is able to stand is answered in chapter 7.

7:1-17 Two visions make up this interlude between the opening of the sixth (6:12) and seventh (8:1) seals—(1) the sealing of the 144,000 servants of God on earth (7:1-8), and (2) the innumerable multitude arriving in heaven (7:9-17). The answer to the question "And who is able to stand?" (6:17) is that the 144,000 servants are able to stand on earth, protected by God's seal (7:2-4), while the vast multitude stands triumphantly before the throne in heaven (7:9-10). The calming of winds on the earth (7:1-3) and the half hour of silence in heaven (8:1) form an eye-of-the-hurricane "bookends" effect around chapter 7.

7:1-3 While there is no mention of damaging wind in relation to the removal of the sixth seal (6:12-17), the great earthquake (6:12), with mountains and islands moving (6:14), certainly reflects extensive harm to the earth and the sea and the trees, which begins again as soon as the trumpet judgments start (e.g.,

8:7-8). The “calm in the midst of the storm” calls attention to the seal of the living God being applied to the foreheads of the slaves of . . . God. In the ancient world, seals were signs of ownership (5:1) or authority (Mt 27:66). These servants of the Lord are sealed just before the scroll is completely *un*sealed (Rv 8:1). A truth intended for the reader’s reflection is that “the mark” of the beast is placed on the right hand or forehead of all who follow the beast (13:16).

7:4-8 The identity of the 144,000 has been variously interpreted. (1) Jehovah’s Witnesses falsely maintain this is the total number of the anointed who will dwell in heaven with Jehovah and rule over the inhabitants of a purified earth. (2) Since all Christians are sealed by the Holy Spirit (2Co 1:22; Eph 4:30), and the 144,000 are called “the slaves of . . . God” in Rv 7:3, the seal of verses 2-4 may be placed on all Christians, and this host is generically representative of them. (3) The most literal interpretation is highly plausible. The 144,000 represent Israel following a future conversion of the nation. The Spirit indwelled Israel in the vision of the valley of dry bones (Ezk 37:14), in which Israel was viewed as “a vast army” (Ezk 37:10), and the 144,000 from every tribe of the Israelites appear to be arranged in military formation, as was Israel in the wilderness (Nm 2:2-34). Revelation 7:4-8 could reflect the point at which the “firstfruits” of Jews (14:4) come under the new covenant (Ezk 36:24-28; cp. Jr 31:31-34) during the Apocalypse.

7:5-8 The tribe of Judah is mentioned first because it was the royal tribe of Israel (Gn 49:9-10) into which Jesus was born (Rv 5:5). Reuben is next because he was Jacob’s firstborn (Gn 49:3). The tribes of Dan and Ephraim are omitted from the listing, perhaps because of their instances of gross idolatry (Jdg 17-18). They are replaced by Joseph and Levi, neither of which was included in the military encampment of tribes in Nm 2.

7:9-12 In 5:9, the Lamb’s worthiness to open the scroll is based on the shedding of His redemptive blood for “every tribe and language and people and nation.” In 7:9, this group arrives in heaven. Since “every nation” is listed first, this scene is at least a partial fulfillment of the Great Commission—where Christ’s disciples are commanded to reach “all nations” with the gospel by “the end of the age” (Mt 28:19-20). The vast multitude wearing white robes links them to the martyrs (6:11) and, in the only other context in Revelation where the phrase “vast multitude” is found (19:1,6), to the bride and the armies of the Lamb (19:8,14). Some interpreters understand the vast multitude to be all martyrs, who arrive in heaven over a period of time. Others see this as the time when the church is raptured, with some who are dead and some who are still alive all arriving at the same time (1Th 4:14-17).

7:13-14 The robes of the vast multitude (v. 9) being made white in the blood of the Lamb likely refers to the redemptive work of Christ (1:5; 5:9). If so, the multitude coming out of the great tribulation (Dn 12:1; Mt 24:21; and "the hour of testing" in Rv 3:10) may refer to the rapture of the church before the great tribulation, if that period does not begin until the events in the scroll are released by the lifting of the seventh seal (8:1). However 3:10 is understood, 7:14 should be taken the same way since both have the Gk preposition ek ("from, out from") and a time period (i.e., "the hour of testing" in 3:10 and "the great tribulation" in 7:14).

7:15-17 The vast multitude's priestly service in heaven is a partial fulfillment of the promises in 1:6 and 5:10. The mention of the sanctuary looks ahead to the equating of the vast multitude with the "heaven dwellers" in 12:12 and 13:6.

The Colosseum at Rome, one of the most impressive structures of the Roman Empire. It was originally called the Flavian Amphitheater and was under construction from A.D. 72 to 80. Large numbers of Christians were martyred in the Colosseum.

8:1 When the seventh seal is lifted, the scroll is finally opened (5:1), so that its contents can be released. The half an hour of silence in heaven echoes Zph 1:7: "Be silent in the presence of the Lord God, for the Day of the Lord is near." This implies that the Day of the Lord (see note at Rv 6:12-17) begins with the trumpet judgments. The half hour of silence appears to serve as a literary break in the action before everything moves full speed ahead toward the final judgment.

8:2-6 This pause while the saints pray implies that God's answer to the prayers for the avenging of the blood of the martyrs (6:10) upon the "earth dwellers," who are the focus of the "hour of testing" (3:10), begins with the judgment of the seven trumpets. The phenomena around the throne in heaven in 4:5 is intensified in 8:5 and poured out in the trumpet judgments.

8:7-12 The first four trumpet judgments in this section mirror the plagues upon Egypt in Ex 7-11. The trumpets are stronger than all the effects of the seals being lifted, except for the sixth seal (Rv 6:12-17). Even the scope of the fourth seal (6:7-8)—in which "a fourth of the earth" is selectively impacted but not totally destroyed—is less extensive than the early trumpet judgments.

8:7 The effects of the first . . . trumpet are hail . . . fire, and blood, which combines what happened in the first (Ex 7:19-20) and seventh (Ex 9:22-25) plagues on Egypt.

8:8-9 The description of the second . . . trumpet sounds like the eruption of a great island volcano. A third of the sea becoming blood and a third of the living creatures in it dying is similar to what happened to the Nile River and its fish in the first plague on Egypt (Ex 7:17-21), but on a global scale.

8:10-11 The effects of the third . . . trumpet are like a meteorite (i.e., a falling star) hitting the earth and causing toxic water pollution, killing many people. Wormwood is a nonpoisonous but bitter plant common to the Middle East. Biblical authors use it as an analogy for bitterness, sorrow, injustice, etc. (e.g., Jr 23:15; Lm 3:15; Am 5:7).

8:12 It is difficult to understand the exact effects of the fourth . . . trumpet, though it clearly echoes the ninth plague on Egypt (Ex 10:21-23). For the sun . . . moon, and stars to be darkened by a third could mean that: (1) these heavenly bodies are visible for "a third" less time than is normal, or (2) the intensity of their light is reduced by "a third," as if by the recent cosmic disturbances (see notes on the first three trumpets at vv. 7,8-9,10-11).

8:13 The remaining three trumpet judgments will maximize the woe upon the "earth dwellers," whom God has previously spotlighted for judgment and vengeance for spilling the martyrs' blood (6:10) during the "hour of testing" (the tribulation period; 3:10).

9:1 The judgment of the fifth . . . trumpet recalls both the eighth plague on Egypt in Ex 10:12-15 and the plague of locusts in Jl 1:2-4; 2:25, which was a foreshadowing of the Day of the Lord (Jl 1:15). The star here may refer to: (1) the demon mentioned in verse 11, (2) Satan (see notes at 12:4 and 12:7-10), or (3) the angel who has the key to the abyss (the bottomless pit) in 20:1. The last option is the most likely.

9:2-10 Clouds of locusts (or grasshoppers) as thick as smoke come up out of the abyss (see note at v. 1). Their origin from the abyss, plus the fact that, unlike regular locusts, these are not allowed to harm any plant or tree on the earth, makes it clear that these creatures are demonic. They target people who do not have God's seal on their foreheads, apparently meaning everyone still alive on earth besides the 144,000 of Israel who were sealed by the Lord in 7:2-4 (although by this point it is possible that they had numerous converts, who might also be protected from the demonic locusts). Some hold that the span of the torment for all the unbelievers is five months because that is the life span of a locust, while others think it has to do with the time of the year when locust plagues occur with devastating impact—from mid-spring to late summer. It is not known how the Lord will prevent the death wish of so many people from being carried out.

9:11 The king of these demonic creatures is called Abaddon (Hb) and Apollyon (Gk), which means "destruction" in both languages. It is ironic that unrepentant unbelievers, who worship demons (v. 20), are tormented by the very beings they worship during the judgment of the fifth trumpet.

9:12 The first woe predicted in 8:13 has now passed with the fifth trumpet (vv. 1-11). The two remaining woes are the sixth trumpet (11:14) and the seventh trumpet (11:15-19), which telescopes all the way to the second coming of Christ (19:11-16).

9:13 When the sixth . . . trumpet sounds, the authority of the voice from the altar . . . before God strongly suggests that this is the Lamb (Christ), not the martyrs related to the altar earlier (6:9-10), or even the angel whose actions led into the trumpet judgment (8:3-5).

9:14-16 The four angels are apparently demons in positions of authority over the demonic army, like Apollyon (v. 11). The river Euphrates was the eastern boundary of the land promised to Abraham (Gn 15:18) and was crossed by the Assyrian and Babylonian empires on their way to invade Israel. That these demons are prepared for the hour, day, month, and year indicates that all these events are according to God's sovereign plan and timing (Dn 9:24-27). An army of 200 million is large enough to accomplish such a horrific slaughter as killing a third (the same proportion of damage as in earlier trumpet judgments in Rv 8:7,9,10,11,12) of the human race. Some believe this army is human, but more likely it is demonic, as was the locust plague of the fifth trumpet judgment (v v. 2-11). It may not be either/or but both/and. On the heels of the judgment of the fifth trumpet, in which nobody was allowed to die (vv. 5-6)—which gives them the opportunity to repent before the Lord and be saved (vv. 20-21)—a third of the world's population that survived the earlier judgments (6:2,4,8,12-17; 8:9,11) is now slaughtered by this demonic army.

9:17-19 The term plagues (Gk plege) is used to echo God's plagues on Egypt in Exodus 7-11. It is also the first of many uses of plege in Revelation, speaking of God's judgment in the end times (11:6; 15:1,6,8; 16:9,21; 18:4,8). The statement that the power of the horses is in their tails and that they are like lions resembles what was said of the demonic locusts (v. 10). But it is unlikely that this refers to the same group since the locusts were not allowed to kill anyone (vv. 5-6).

9:20-21 The only way for anyone who survives the "plagues" of the trumpet judgments to be saved is to repent of their sins (Lk 24:47; Ac 26:20) and come to saving faith in Jesus Christ (Ac 16:31). But since the names of the "earth dwellers," upon whom the fifth and sixth trumpet judgments fall (Rv 8:13), are not written in the Lamb's book of life (13:8; 17:8), they will not repent. They give the same hard-hearted response Pharaoh gave when confronted with the plagues (Ex 7:22; 9:7; see also Rm 9:17-18 and notes there). The words worshiping demons and idols, as well as sorceries and sexual immorality, recall problems in the churches at Pergamum and Thyatira (2:13-14,20-21) and point forward to the multiplied sins of Babylon the Great (18:2,3,5,9).

10:1-11:14 This is a second interlude in the book of Revelation (the first is 7:1-17), falling between the sixth and seventh trumpets. Some interpreters think of chapters 12-14 as a third interlude, though these are actually a prelude to the bowl judgments (15:1-19:5).

10:1 The mighty angel could be: (1) the angel introduced in 5:2, (2) the angel seen in 18:1, or (3) another angel altogether. In spite of his impressive appearance and the similarity to the vision of the Son of Man (i.e., the glorified Christ) in 1:13-16, it is unlikely this is Christ. Christ is never called an angel elsewhere in the NT.

10:2 The little scroll (Gk biblaridion) may be (1) a second scroll in the Apocalypse, or (2) since it is opened, the scroll which was finally opened for viewing in 8:1. Perhaps the scroll in this verse appears small because the angel holding it is so huge (his right foot being on the sea and his left foot being on the land).

10:3-4 In 1Pt 5:8, the Devil is said to be like a roaring lion. In this case, the angel's lion-like voice may be because he is speaking for the Lion of Judah (5:5), the glorified Christ. The seven thunders may be an allusion to Psalm 29. The number seven stands for completeness in Revelation. So these thunders may look forward to the completion of God's judgment in the rest of the book. The proper perspective on the sealed writing is: "The hidden things belong to the LORD our God" (Dt 29:29).

10:5-7 On the angel . . . standing on the sea, see note at verse 1. The pace of divine judgment is about to quicken and be completed, with the sounding of the seventh trumpet (11:15-19), which telescopes all the way to the second coming of Christ (see note at 11:15-19). God's hidden plan (Gk musterion) is truth that has not been previously revealed or fulfilled, but is being revealed now (Eph 3:9). The phrase His servants the prophets echoes the same wording in Am 3:7, but it probably refers to both OT and NT (Eph 2:20; 4:11) prophets in this passage.

10:8-11 John taking the open scroll from the hand of the angel represents delegated authority, even as it did when the Lamb (Christ) took the unopened scroll from God the Father in 5:7. For John to eat the scroll recalls Ezekiel being commanded to do the same thing (Ezk 3:1-3). This turned out to be a bitter ministry for Ezekiel (3:14). In John's case, while the eating was as sweet as honey, the digesting was bitter. The implication here is that the ministry of the Word of God is bittersweet because, while the intake and preaching of Scripture (i.e., John's command to prophesy) is sweet, the calloused rejection of the hearers is bitter indeed.

11:1 -2 The mention of a measuring reed like a rod and the command to go and measure God's sanctuary and the altar calls to mind Ezk 40:3,5. The phrase count those who worship there appears to speak of God's people, while the courtyard outside the sanctuary was the court of the Gentiles (the nations). It is not necessary for the second temple to have still been standing in Jerusalem for John to see a vision of the sanctuary and its court. It is possible that he saw a rebuilt end-times temple in Jerusalem since that seems to be assumed by 2Th 2:4. The statement that the Gentiles will trample the holy city (Jerusalem) echoes Jesus' statement about "the times of the Gentiles" (Lk 21:24) just before the second coming of Christ.

11:3-4 The 1,260 days, in which two unnamed witnesses . . . prophesy for the Lord, is in stark contrast to the "42 months" of 11:2 and 13:5. Since no one can harm the witnesses until "they finish their testimony" (11:7), and since they die in Jerusalem (see note at vv. 8-10)—apparently having ministered there—this period of 1,260 days cannot be the same three-and-one-half-year period as the reign of the beast (13:5). The 1,260 days precede the beast's reign, because part of his rise to worldwide prominence is based on killing the two witnesses (11:7). These witnesses are dressed in sackcloth, the garb of mourning and repentance (Jl 1:13; Jnh 3:5-6). The two olive trees and the two lampstands are imagery from Zechariah 4, where the two figures appear to be Zerubbabel the governor and Joshua the high priest, and the task at hand was the rebuilding of the temple. Perhaps John used this imagery to recall the crucial spiritual principle articulated in that chapter: "'Not by strength or by might, but by My Spirit,' says the LORD of Hosts" (Zch 4:6).

11:5-6 Besides being invulnerable to physical harm, the ministry of the two witnesses echoes the great miracles of the ministries of Elijah and Moses (who had appeared together on the Mount of Transfiguration; Mt 17:3). Fire that consumes their enemies looks back to Elijah's ministry in 2Kg 1:10-12. No rain during the days of their prophecy (which is three-and-one-half years long; v. 3) echoes the three-year drought that Elijah prophesied (1Kg 17:1; 18:1). Power over the waters to turn them into blood and to strike the earth with every plague recalls Moses' ministry in Egypt (Ex 7-11).

11:7 The beast, the great antichrist figure prophesied elsewhere (Dn 7:20-21,25; 2Th 2:9-11; 1Jn 2:18), and the satanically-inspired world ruler in Revelation 13 and 17, now makes his initial appearance. His origin is said to be the abyss, from which the demonic locusts came (9:1-10), and where Satan will be imprisoned (20:1-3). It is only because their three-and-one-half-year period of ministry is completed that the beast is able to make war with the two witnesses and kill them. The irony of using the word conquer to speak of the death of the witnesses is that, while it may seem that the beast is victorious (vv. 7-10), these witnesses, as martyrs, come back to life (vv. 11-12).

11:8-10 The great city is the usual way of referring to Babylon the Great in Revelation (17:18; 18:10), as well as Sodom (infamous for its sexual immorality) and Egypt (where God's people had been slaves). This depicts the wickedness of Jerusalem's inhabitants at this time. The brutal death of the two witnesses, the sacrilege of not giving them a proper burial, and the glee of the non-elect "earth dwellers" (see notes at 13:8 and 17:7-8) at their deaths, demonstrate that wickedness. That the witnesses are also called prophets in the context of their death at the hands of the beast places them in the category of other prophets who had died for their faith and who are honored in Revelation (v. 18; 16:6; 18:20,24).

11:11-12 The phrase after 3 ½ days is intended to be compared with Jesus being resurrected on the third day (1Co 15:4). The breath of life probably echoes the spiritual resuscitation of Israel pictured in the "valley of dry bones" in Ezk 37:5,10 and sets the stage for the widespread conversion of Israel in Rv 11:13. Great fear can be a positive thing since "the fear of the LORD" is the beginning of wisdom (Pr 1:7). The phrase come up here is understood by some interpreters to speak of the rapture of the church at the middle of the tribulation, though this passage refers to only two people.

11:13 Everything changes in one moment, from rejoicing at the death of the two witnesses (vv. 7-10) to shock at their resurrection, then hanging on for dear life in the devastation of a violent earthquake. In the midst of the widespread damage and death, fear turns into faith with many who saw the resurrection and ascension of the two witnesses. The proper response to the "eternal gospel" to be preached to everyone still alive on the earth in 14:6-7 is to "fear God and give Him glory." Since this takes place in Jerusalem, where most people present would be Jewish, this could be the fulfillment of Paul's prophecy that "all Israel will be saved" (Rm 11:25). Others view this as nothing more than a "foxhole conversion," in which there is a momentary acknowledgment of the Lord but no authentic faith.

11:14 The second woe of the three predicted in 8:13 has now passed. Since the third woe is coming quickly, it apparently is closely related to the seventh trumpet (vv. 15-19; see note there).

11:15-19 The sense of finality in the wording of the seventh . . . trumpet has caused some interpreters to think this is the point of the second coming of Christ and that the following chapters double back and retrace the same ground from a different perspective. In a full-blown "recapitulation" view, it is held that the seals, trumpets, and bowls all speak of the same judgments from different perspectives. Such an approach is not necessary, however, since the seventh trumpet overarches the seven bowls of wrath, with the seventh bowl telescoping all the way to the preparation for the second coming of Christ. This perspective is supported by the fact that the phenomena (lightning, rumblings, thunder, an earthquake, and severe hail) ready to be poured out on the earth related to the seventh trumpet (v. 19) are not actually poured out until the seventh bowl (16:18,21).

11:15 The phrase the kingdom of this world has become the kingdom of our Lord and of His Messiah can be understood as (1) the earthly reign of Christ (20:4-6) has already begun at this point, and chapters 12-19 is a déjà vu of the first half of the book, until the narrative arrives at another description of "the kingdom of our Lord over this world," in 20:4-6; (2) the past tense "has become" speaks of certainty so strong that the future is spoken of in the past tense (i.e., "will certainly become"); (3) what is already true in heaven will come true on earth ("Your kingdom come, Your will be done on earth as it is in heaven," Mt 6:10); or (4) the timeless perspective of heaven is different from that of this world (e.g., from the standpoint of heaven, "every creature" in the universe blesses God and the Lamb in Rv 5:13, long before "every knee should bow . . . and every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father" [Php 2:10-11] at the final judgment [Rv 20:11-15]). Any of the last three explanations is more likely than the first.

11:16-18 On the 24 elders, see note at 4:3-4. Lord God . . . who is and who was means the One who not only exists but has existed eternally. You . . . have begun to reign may mean that (1) the kingdom of God already exists in this world in some sense (1:9), or (2) God's power to reign in heaven is about to come to earth in the wake of His climactic wrath being displayed in the pouring out of the bowls of wrath (15:1-19:5), immediately after the prelude to that section (chaps. 12-14). The time . . . for the dead to be judged . . . to give the reward to God's people (2Co 5:10), and to destroy those who destroy the earth (probably the "earth dwellers"; see notes at 3:10; 6:9-11; and 8:13) comes after Christ's return (20:11-15).

11:19 The ark of the covenant had been in the "holy of holies" in the tabernacle (Ex 40:3) and the temple (1Kg 6:19), which was destroyed by the invading Babylonian army (2Ch 36:19). Now it is seen in the heavenly "holy of holies."

12:1-14 : 20 This section functions as a prelude to the bowls-of-wrath sequence (15:1-19:5). During a "time-out" from the progress of the narrative, it provides a midstream orientation to some characters and content that are crucial to understanding the second half of the Apocalypse.

12:1 -2 John used an important term he had used in the Fourth Gospel (Jn 20:30)—sign (Gk semeion). It is first used for imagery that echoes Joseph's vision in Gn 37:9, speaking of the people of Israel. More likely this sign refers to ethnic Israel or a believing remnant of Jews. The woman being pregnant and in labor and agony recalls Gn 3:15-16. The prophecy of the virgin birth (Is 7:14) of Christ may also be in view.

12:3 The second sign (see note at v. 1), a great . . . dragon, is interpreted in v. 9 as referring to the Devil and Satan. The description of the dragon having seven heads and 10 horns is similar to that of the beast in 13:1, but different enough ("10 horns and seven heads") to make clear that the two are separate characters.

12:4 It is possible that a third of the stars in heaven being swept away is related to the destruction of one-third during several of the trumpet judgments (8:7,8,9,10,12; 9:15,18), but since the dragon symbolizes Satan, these stars may stand for fallen angels who followed Satan in his rebellion (Mt 25:41). The phrase the dragon stood in front of the woman . . . so that . . . he might devour her child indicates that the attempt of King Herod the Great to kill the baby Jesus (Mt 2:1-16) was satanically inspired.

12:5 The words Son . . . all nations, and with an iron scepter are allusions to Psalm 2, which is filled with messianic prophecy. The word shepherd may be a reflection that, as Christ will tenderly shepherd His people, there is another side to that role—shepherding the unbelievers among the nations with an iron scepter. The narrative then leaps ahead all the way from the birth of Christ to His ascension (see Ac 1:9-11 and note there).

12:6 Some time after the ascension of the Son, the woman is supernaturally cared for by the Lord for 1,260 days (three and one-half years)—the exact words that describe the period of protection of the two witnesses (11:3). This probably takes place shortly after the two witnesses have ascended, near the beginning of the second half of a seven-year tribulation period. The woman fleeing likely is representative of Jewish converts who feared God (11:18) and glorified Him (11:13) after the witnesses were resurrected and ascended (11:11-13). The imagery of the woman is a continuation from the faithful remnant of Israel, including Mary, the mother of Jesus. The wilderness was the setting where the nation of Israel was protected by the Lord from Pharaoh's army and was miraculously fed manna and quail (Ex 16).

12:7-10 Because it is mentioned immediately after the woman fleeing into the wilderness (v. 6) and because its outcome immediately affects the earth at the end of the age (vv. 12-13), the war . . . in heaven probably also takes place just after the midpoint of the tribulation period. Some interpreters hold that the cosmic war pictured here occurred after Satan's original fall (Is 14:12-15; Ezk 28:11-17) or during the events surrounding Christ's crucifixion (Col 2:14-15). The sense that the "woman" in Rv 12:6 is a believing remnant of Israel (see notes at 11:13 and 12:6) is strengthened by the clash of the dragon (identified as the Devil and Satan) with Michael the archangel (Jd 9), who is assigned to protect Israel (Dn 12:1).

12:11 Sometimes what looks like defeat is victory, as when believers die for their faith. Satan has killed them, but they are the ultimate victors because of the blood of the Lamb (Christ's death on the cross) and the word of their testimony.

12:12 Because Satan has been banned from heaven (vv. 7-9), the heavens and those who dwell in them can rejoice. The "heaven dwellers" are the counterpart group in Revelation to the "earth dwellers" (3:10; 6:9-11; 8:13; 11:8-10; 13:8). The Devil, having been cast down to earth, is enraged and will take out his great fury on the earth and the sea, because he knows his time (Gk kairos, "occasion, opportunity") is short.

12:13-14 Out of frustration for being cast out of heaven and thrown to earth (vv. 7-9), the dragon (Satan), also symbolized as the serpent in this passage, persecuted the woman (believing Israel) for a period of three and one-half years. The phrase time, times, and half a time is a year, two years, and half a year—three and one-half years total. This phrase is taken from Dn 7:25 and 12:7, where it speaks of a period in which "the holy ones" are persecuted in the end times. That the woman was given two wings of a great eagle is the same imagery used of Israel escaping the Egyptian army in the wilderness (Ex 19:4).

12:15-16 There is no way of knowing if the onslaught of the serpent . . . dragon (Satan; see note at vv. 7-10) against the woman (believing Israel; see notes at v. 6 and 11:13), as well as the description of the Lord's protection (the earth . . . swallowed up the river), is meant to be taken literally. Perhaps a metaphorical interpretation is intended.

12:17 Unable to get at the woman, the Devil (the dragon) turns aside to wage war against (i.e., kill; 11:7) the Gentile "saints" (13:7). The Gentiles are called the rest of her offspring because they are Christ's "other sheep that are not of this [Jewish] fold" (Jn 10:16). The other offspring, like John (Rv 1:9) and the martyrs seen under the heavenly altar (6:9), have kept God's commands and the testimony about Jesus.

13:1-3 The beast coming up out of the sea (the so-called sea of humanity), first mentioned in 11:7 (where his origin was the abyss), is described in similar terms (leopard . . . bear's . . . feet . . . lion's mouth) to (1) the beasts (esp. the fourth one) in the vision of Daniel 7, (2) the dragon in Rv 12:3 (10 horns, seven heads, 10 diadems), and (3) Satan, who now gave him his power and great authority. Since the beast was embarrassed by the resurrection and ascension of the two witnesses (11:11-12), 13:3 appears to describe either an actual resurrection or a nearly fatal wound.

13:5-7 The Lord allows the beast to speak. . . against God as well as the authority to conduct his worldwide reign of terror against Gentile believers (the saints; see note at 12:17). This blasphemy takes place for the remaining three and one-half years (42 months) of the tribulation period, after the witnesses complete their ministry and are taken to heaven (11:3,7,11-12). This is the same 42 months spoken of in 11:2. The use of skeyney (Gk, "tent, tabernacle, dwelling place") as the word for dwelling equates "the saints" with the "vast multitude from every nation" in 7:9 (see note at 7:9-12), of whom it was said that God "will shelter them" (Gk skeynoo; "to live in a tent, dwell with," 7:15). In the wording "vast multitude," these "heaven dwellers" are seen later in the book praising God for His just judgment (19:1) and for the Lamb's marriage to His bride (19:7), just before the second coming of Christ (19:11-16).

13:8 This verse explains why the "earth dwellers" (see notes at 3:10; 6:9-11; 8:13) worship the beast—the absence of their names from the book of life of the Lamb, which contains the names of all those who will be spared the lake of fire at the last judgment (20:12,15).

13:9-10 The phrase if anyone has an ear functions as a call to perseverance and the faith of the saints (see notes at 13:5-7; 18:20; and 18:24), even unto death if necessary. Some are destined by God for captivity and some to be martyrs.

13:11 A second beast (another of the same kind; Gk allos) that arises is apparently a religious leader because he is called "the false prophet" in 16:13; 19:20; 20:10. Outwardly, he seems gentle like Christ (like a lamb), but his prophecies are the voice of Satan (like a dragon).

13:12-13 The second beast has full delegated authority from the first beast to complete his mission—worldwide worship of the first beast. Causing fire to come down from heaven sounds like a mimicking of one of the miracles performed by the two witnesses (11:5).

13:14-15 The second beast shows his likeness to Satan as he deceives (12:9) the "earth dwellers" through the spectacular signs he can perform (see 2Th 2:9).

He persuades the "earth dwellers" to erect an image of the first beast to worship. This sort of thing was common to John's original readers, who had been exposed to images of the Greco-Roman gods and Roman emperors, but this image comes to life.

13:16-18 The mark of the beast, apparently a sort of tattoo or brand of the beast's name or its numerical equivalent, is required for anyone to conduct business in that day. The mark is clearly contrasted with the seal (7:3-4) and the name of the Lamb and the Father (14:1) on the foreheads of the 144,000. The number (666) reflects the fact that the number 6 is just short of the number of perfection, which is 7. So the number 666 intensifies the sense that the beast does not possess the perfection of divinity. But the validity of such calculations will become fully clear only as the end-time events unfold.

14:1-5 The 144,000, first seen on earth in 7:4-8 (see note there), are now seen on the heavenly Mount Zion with Christ, the Lamb. The beast cannot touch them, even though they do not have his mark (13:16-17), because they have the name of Christ and the Father on their foreheads. The new song cannot be the same as the one in 5:9-10 because this one can only be learned by the 144,000. On the four living creatures, see note at 4:6-7. On the elders, see note at 4:3-4. In their spiritual purity, they are fitting firstfruits (either the first produce to be harvested, the best of the harvest, or both) of the Lord's final harvest (vv. 14-20). This wording implies that many others are yet to come into the gospel "harvest" (i.e., to saving faith; see vv. 6-7).

14:6-7 Some interpreters think the . . . gospel is not expressed in Revelation. However, the Greek word translated "gospel" (euangelion) is present, and the climactic preaching calls us to (1) fear God and (2) give Him glory, recognizing the certainty of judgment if one does otherwise.

14:8-11 The fall of Babylon and God's wrath will be expanded in 16:17-21 and 18:1-19:3. The mention of sexual immorality recalls the same problem in the churches at Pergamum and Thyatira (2:14,20-21). While those who die in the Lord will find "rest" (14:13), there will be no rest day or night for anyone who worships the beast and has his mark.

14:12-13 Blessed marks the second beatitude in Revelation (see notes at 1:3; 16:15; 19:9; 20:4-6; 22:6-7; and 22:14-15,17). Believers (the saints) who persevere in keeping God's commands and faith in Jesus will be blessed with the reward of their godly works (20:12; 2Co 5:10).

14:14-20 Some believe that the One like the Son of Man in this section must be an angel because of the unlikelihood of Christ receiving the command from another angel to reap . . . the harvest. But the Son of Man associated with a cloud is a clear allusion to Dn 7:13, where the Messiah (Christ) is definitely in view. This section visualizes the "harvest . . . at the end of the age" (Mt 13:38-43), when the "good seed" and the "weeds" are separated to their eternal destinies. The wheat harvest apparently gleans those responding positively to the climactic preaching of the gospel (see notes at Rv 14:6-7 and 15:2-4). A recent view holds that 14:14-16 is the point at which the church is raptured. This is highly unlikely. The harvest of grapes leads to the judgment pictured here as the great winepress of God's wrath. Since the winepress imagery related to divine wrath is seen in connection with the second coming of Christ (19:15), the events of 14:17-20 must occur at that point. If taken literally, when the "grapes of wrath" are trampled in Christ's winepress (19:15) outside the city (Jerusalem, apparently), the blood (from the climactic battle at His second coming in 19:19,21) rises to the height of horses' bridles for some 180 miles. This is roughly the length of Israel from north to south. Some view this horrific description as symbolic of God's righteous judgment resulting in the deaths of many of the unrepentant.

15:1 This is the third sign (Gk semeion) in the Apocalypse. It differs from the first two (12:1,3)—seven angels and their corresponding plagues (Gk pleygey, calling to mind the judgment of the plagues on Egypt). They are called the "last plagues" because they bring God's wrath to completion. Since the seventh bowl of wrath (16:17,21) fulfills exactly what appears about to take place in 11:19, the bowls-of-wrath sequence (15:1-19:6) spans from the end of the trumpets sequence all the way to the second coming of Christ (19:11-16).

15:2-4 Mixed with fire may preview the fire with which Babylon the Great, the climactic focus of the bowl judgments (16:17-21), burns (18:8-9,18). Those who had won the victory over the beast are martyrs (12:11) who responded properly to the preaching of the "eternal gospel" (14:6-7; see note there) by fearing, glorifying, and worshiping God. The song of God's servant Moses appears in Exodus 15. Israel sang it when they had escaped their Egyptian pursuers, reaching safety on the other side of the Red Sea. Calling Rv 15:3-4 the song of "Moses and the song of the Lamb" infers that these martyrs are spiritually "safe on the other side," meaning heaven.

15:5-8 The heavenly sanctuary was last seen in 11:19, in connection with the sounding of the last trumpet. The previous uses of tabernacle (Gk skeyney) in the book refer to the "heaven dwellers" (7:15; 13:6). The angels with the plagues are dressed in the garb of OT priests. The mention of gold bowls calls to mind "the prayers of the saints," which are in gold bowls (5:8) before the Lord, especially the martyrs' prayer to avenge their blood on the "earth dwellers" (6:10). The wording of the third bowl of wrath (16:4-7), especially the mention of a voice coming from "the altar" (16:7), may link "the prayers of the saints" to the seven gold bowls filled with the wrath of God. The sanctuary being filled with smoke from God's glory recalls the cloud and the glory of God filling the tabernacle in the wilderness (Ex 40:34), indicating God was present with His people and guiding them.

16:1 The loud voice from the sanctuary is probably that of the Lord since it is God's wrath that is being poured out on the earth.

16:2 Since 6:9-11 and 8:13 (see notes there), it has been expected that the brunt of God's judgment would be focused on the "earth dwellers" at some point. But as the final cycle of judgment (15:1) begins, the first . . . bowl is poured out on those who have the mark of the beast and who worship his image. They are struck with painful sores. This recalls the sixth plague on Egypt (Ex 9:8-11).

16:3 The effects of the second . . . bowl are like the second trumpet judgment (8:8-9). But only a third of the sea became blood and a third of sea life was killed then, while all the sea and all life in the sea are affected by this bowl of God's wrath. This echoes the first plague on Egypt (Ex 7:14-21).

16:4-7 The third . . . bowl is like the third trumpet judgment (8:10-11) since it impacts the fresh water sources. On the description of God as who is and who was, see note at 11:16-18. The significance of turning the water into blood is now clarified. Those who worshiped the beast (16:2) are being judged in divine righteousness for the blood (6:10) of the martyred saints (see note at 5:8) and prophets (see note at 10:5-7). Since such vengeance was predicted for the "earth dwellers" (6:10-11), the beast worshipers and the "earth dwellers" must be the same group.

16:8-9 While the fourth trumpet judgment (8:12-13) greatly dimmed the light of the sun, moon, and stars, the fourth . . . bowl causes people to be burned with fire and intense heat. Instead of crying out for mercy from God, though, the response of the beast worshipers (v. 2) was to blaspheme the Lord, like the beast himself (13:5) refusing to repent (see note at 9:20-21). They also did not . . . give Him glory, indicating that they rejected the preaching of the gospel in 14:6-7.

16:10-11 The fifth . . . bowl is also like the fourth trumpet (8:12-13) in that the sun, moon, and stars are darkened, but only by "a third." People may have gnawed their tongues in pain due to (1) extreme cold caused by the ongoing darkness, (2) the sores from the first bowl judgment (v. 2), (3) the severe burns related to the fourth bowl (vv. 8-9), or (4) all three of these factors. That this bowl was poured out on the throne of the beast and his kingdom was to show that his worldwide authority (13:7) was about to end. On the people's blasphemy and refusal to repent, see note at 9:20-21.

16:12-14 The sixth . . . bowl of wrath is the preparation for the battle of Armagedon (v. 16). The sixth trumpet judgment also mentioned the great river Euphrates (see note at 9:14-16). It is possible that the phrase, its water was dried up, is intended to recall the parting of the Red Sea since both concern armies (here, armies of the kings from the east side of the Euphrates). These armies are moving to join the kings of the whole world for the battle of the great day of God, the Almighty (the Day of the Lord; see note at 6:12-17) to war against God (see note at 16:16). The three unclean spirits are demons, performing deceiving signs to influence these kings (see Dn 10:13,20) to do the will of Satan (the dragon; see note at 12:7-10).

16:15 In the midst of the description of the lead-up to Armagedon (see note at v. 16) is the third blessing statement of the Apocalypse (1:3; 14:13; 19:9; 20:6; 22:7,14), warning readers always to be spiritually alert. Coming like a thief echoes Jesus' parable in Mt 24:43-44 and His earlier threat to the church at Sardis (Rv 3:3). Spiritual nakedness was one of Christ's indictments of the church at Laodicea (3:17-18).

16:16 Many explanations have been offered for the place called . . . Armagedon. In Hebrew, it appears to mean "hill or mount of Megiddo." Since there are no full-sized mountains in Israel other than Mount Hermon, referring to a hill overlooking the Valley of Megiddo (the site of some of the most important military battles in world history) as a mount is similar to the references to the hill known as "Mount Moriah" or "Mount Zion." Others think Armagedon is not an actual place but a symbol for the concluding battle between good and evil.

16:17-21 The seventh . . . bowl of wrath is focused on Babylon the Great, introduced in 14:8. The phrase it is done echoes Jesus' declaration on the cross: "It is finished." The work of judgment is now completed, just as Christ's redemptive work was finished. The phenomena poured out in judgment (lightning . . . rumblings . . . thunder . . . earthquake . . . hailstones) have been "on hold" since being spotlighted in heaven in 11:19. The great city here is not Jerusalem, as in 11:8, but Babylon. The mixing of references closely aligns the ungodly aspects of both cities. In 14:10, the beast worshipers were told they would "drink the wine of God's wrath . . . in the cup of His anger." Now, Babylon receives the cup filled with the wine of His fierce anger. Thus, each is being equally punished, and it is the punishment that was expected to come upon the "earth dwellers" (see notes at 6:9-11; 8:13). The phrase "Babylon the Great" is taken from Nebuchadnezzar's boast in Dn 4:30. It could speak of a rebuilt end-time city, though Jr 51:26 makes that unlikely. It could be a code name for Rome, or it could picture any proud society, with the Tower of Babel (Gn 11:1-

9) and Babylon under Nebuchadnezzar being classic examples.

17:1-19 : 5 This section is a postscript to the bowls of wrath, expanding the reader's understanding of Babylon the Great, her relationship with the beast, and the scope of her just and final judgment.

17:1-2 On the seven angels and seven bowls, see note at 15:1. The notorious prostitute is Babylon the Great, who in verse 5 is called "the Mother of Prostitutes," apparently underlining the long existence of this Babylon. The many waters are explained as "peoples, multitudes, nations, and languages" in verse 15. Babylon has essentially the same relationship of sexual immorality with the kings of the earth and the "earth dwellers" (v. 2) as "Jezebel" did with the sinners in the church at Thyatira (2:20).

17:3-6 On in the Spirit, see note at 1:10. The word translated desert (Gk eremon) is rendered "wilderness" in 12:6,14. The woman, Babylon, also has a very close relationship with the beast (on the blasphemous names . . . seven heads . . . and 10 horns, see note at 13:1-3). To the casual outward observer, Babylon has all the trappings of wealth and royalty, but in actuality, she is characterized by everything vile and the impurities of her prostitution. The name on her forehead may imply that Babylon serves the beast (see note at 13:16-18), though it is not the name or number of the beast. The wider "mystery" (cryptic name) of Babylon has to do with her being the source of harlotry (Mother of Prostitutes) and moral abominations (the vile things of the earth), and killing throughout history.

17:7-8 Another aspect of the secret meaning (Gk musterion) of Babylon (the woman) and the beast is their hold on the "earth dwellers." It is because their names were not . . . written in the book of life (see note at 13:8). On the seven heads and the 10 horns, see note at 13:1-3. It is not clear when the beast could have been manifest before in human history.

17:9 The seven heads of the beast (vv. 3,7) are seven mountains (or hills; the Gk oros can mean either). This seems to be a reference to Rome, which was known in antiquity as "the city on seven hills." But since the woman (Babylon) is seated on the seven mountains, and the seven heads are identified as seven kings (v. 10), it is unwise to be dogmatic on this point.

17:10 The identity of the seven kings is highly disputed. Some interpreters understand this to refer to seven historic Roman emperors, but more hold that it refers to seven successive world empires (e.g., Egypt, Assyria, Babylon, Medo-Persia, Greece, Rome, and a yet future empire). The phrase a little while would refer to the beast's unrivaled reign of "42 months" (13:5).

17:11 On the beast that was and is not, see note at verses 7-8. The phrase that the beast is an eighth king yet belongs to the seven is difficult to interpret.

Some in the early church thought this referred to Nero coming back to life. The best explanation, though, seems to be that, even though the physical body remains the same, the beast is two different personalities at "before-and-after" points in his career. This dramatic change could happen either (1) when the beast initially comes to prominence by killing the two witnesses (11:7) or (2) after his "resurrection" from a presumed fatal wound (13:3,12,14). That the beast is going to destruction refers to eternal torment in the lake of fire (19:20; 20:10).

17:12-13 The 10 horns of Dn 7:7,20,24 (see Rv 17:3,7) are 10 kings who will rule alongside the beast during his unrivaled reign of 42 months (13:5). This period is referred to here as one hour, much as the tribulation period is called "the hour of testing" (3:10).

17:14 The battle here takes place at the second coming of Christ (the Lamb . . . Lord of lords and King of kings; note the reversed wording from "King of kings and Lord of lords," 19:16). This verse clarifies that the armies following the Lamb in 19:14 are believers since the combined terms called . . . chosen . . . and faithful are never used of angels.

17:15-17 The prostitute (Babylon the Great) has ingratiated herself to the remaining world population (peoples . . . languages). The irony here is that, in the end, the very rulers (the 10 horns . . . and the beast) with which the pseudo-queen (v. 4; 18:7), Babylon the Great, has acted immorally (17:2), will turn on her and destroy her. Most amazing is that, ultimately, this will take place according to God's purpose and sovereign plan.

17:18-18 : 3 The woman (Babylon the Great; 17:5) is now pictured as the great city (see note at 16:17-21), which has secured political influence over the kings of the earth (17:18) by sexual immorality (17:2). Babylon could include an actual city in the end times, but the "lament" in Revelation 18 is modeled after Jeremiah 51, which says that the Babylonian Empire and the city of Babylon will "never rise again" (Jr 51:64). It is thus more likely that Babylon the Great (18:2) is the world system (1Jn 2:15-17) organized in arrogant rebellion against God throughout history, with the Tower of Babel, the Babylonian Empire, Rome—and even Jerusalem (Rv 11:8)—being classic expressions of this rebellion.

18:4 The insight into the dark demonic "heart" of Babylon the Great (v. 2) causes the Lord (another voice from heaven) to command His people to come out of Babylon or be caught up in His judgment for her sins. A few interpreters understand the rapture of the church to take place at this point.

18:5-8 The reason Babylon the Great was remembered in the presence of God in regard to the seventh bowl of wrath (16:19) is now explained: her sins and crimes are piled up to heaven like a growing refuse heap, the stench of which finally became unbearable. God will pay . . . back (Rm 12:19) Babylon for her works in full measure and more so. Babylon may arrogantly sit as a queen, with a false sense of security, but the judgment for her mountain of sins, including self-glorification and lavish living, is certain and will be strong and swift.

18:9-10 The words woe, woe may indicate that the destruction of Babylon is the focus of the third woe predicted in 8:13, which was supposed to come upon the "earth dwellers." If so, it would be either (1) the "earth dwellers" and Babylon the Great are the same entity, or (2) as a result of their stubborn lack of repentance before the Lord (9:20-21), the "earth dwellers" are eventually merged into the Babylonian world system.

18:11-14 The merchants of the earth grew wealthy (v. 3) from their relationship with Babylon the Great. They weep and mourn at her demise because of their loss of business. The inventory of about 30 items of merchandise is similar to the list in Ezekiel 27. All these splendid and glamorous things will disappear.

18:17-19 The next group to lament the loss of Babylon the Great is all whose business has to do with the sea. Their weeping and mourning grows out of the fact that they had become rich through her trade. On woe, woe, see note at verses 9-10.

18:20 In stark contrast to the self-centered mourning of the sinful accomplices (v. 3) of Babylon the Great (vv. 9-19), the martyrs in heaven (saints, apostles, and prophets) are urged to rejoice because God has judged Babylon, largely because of their shed blood (your judgment means "judgment on your behalf"; 6:9-11; 17:6). Among the martyrs by this time were the apostles James (Ac 12:2) as well as Paul and Peter according to credible extrabiblical tradition.

18:21 On mighty angel, see note at 10:1. A large millstone could weigh several tons.

18:22-23 Throughout Scripture, beautiful aspects of life (e.g., the voice of a groom and bride) and culture (e.g., the sound of . . . musicians, craftsmen of every trade) have either been used in praise of God (Ps 150:3-5) or in arrogant rebellion against Him (Gn 4:21-22). After the judgment of Babylon the Great, such perversion of God's intention for beauty will never happen again. The lack of repentance of the "earth dwellers" during the trumpet judgments (Rv 9:21) was caused by the deceptive sorcery of Babylon the Great.

18:24 What is seen in Revelation is the end-time manifestation of Babylon the Great since she is held guilty of the blood of not just prophets and saints, but all martyrs slaughtered on earth throughout history.

19:1-4 The vast multitude pictured as a choir singing the heavenly "Hallelujah Chorus" (vv. 1,3,4,6) was taken to heaven in 7:9 and are identified as the "heaven dwellers" by comparing 7:15 and 13:6. They now praise God for (1)

their salvation and (2) His righteous judgments upon Babylon, the notorious prostitute (17:1), thus avenging the blood of His servants, the martyrs (see note at 6:9-11). On the 24 elders, see note at 4:3-4. On the four living creatures, see note at 4:6-7.

19:6-8 The praise of the vast multitude (see note at vv. 1-4) as a heavenly choir now turns to (1) the coming reign of the Lord and (2) the joyful marriage of the Lamb. The wife of the Lamb (Christ) is the church (Eph 5:31-32), those redeemed from all nations (Rv 5:9-10; 7:9) by His blood (1:5-6; 5:9-10). Since these descriptions are equally true of the vast multitude (7:9; 19:1,6) and the "heaven dwellers" (12:12; 13:6), it appears that there is a shift in imagery from the same group of people being portrayed as a choir to being the wife of the Lamb.

19:9 The fourth beatitude of the Apocalypse has a twist: If a person accepts the "invitation" and goes to the marriage feast of the Lamb, his faith will make him part of the wife (the church). It is called a "feast" because it endures, beginning on the evening of the wedding and continuing for days.

19:10 Near the beginning of the Ten Commandments, God's people are prohibited from the worship of any being other than God (Ex 20:3-6). Nevertheless, in sheer amazement, John fell prostrate to worship the angel. The angel immediately corrected him. The phrase the testimony about Jesus is the spirit of prophecy apparently means that all biblical prophecy either directly or indirectly testifies about Jesus, the Messiah (Lk 24:27,44-48; 1Pt 1:11-12).

19:11-13 John had previously seen heaven opened in 4:1. This rider on a white horse is not the same as the one in 6:2 (see note there). He judges and makes war in righteousness, not in the boastful and blasphemous way that the beast does (13:5-7). This is why He is called Faithful and True. On eyes . . . like a fiery flame, see note at 1:14. Many crowns shows that Christ has more power to rule than Satan (12:3) or the beast (13:1). A name . . . that no one knows except Himself reminds readers that the Lord has not revealed everything about Himself and His plan (Dt 29:29; see note at Rv 10:3-4). A robe stained with blood looks backwards at Jesus' redemptive death (7:9) and forward to His treading the winepress of God's wrath (19:15; Is 63:1-6). In both the Gospel of John (1:1,14) and 1 John (1:1), John began by referring to Jesus as the Word (Gk logos).

19:14 Since the armies accompanying the Lord are wearing pure white linen, as did the Lamb's wife (v. 8), this is another image for the same group elsewhere called the "vast multitude" (vv. 1,6; 7:9) and the "heaven dwellers" (12:12; 13:6). On why these are not angels, see note at 17:14. White horses implies that Christ allows His people to participate in the climactic victory, as they later reign with Him (20:6).

19:15-16 God's word pictured as a sharp sword looks back to the description of the Son of Man in 1:13-16. Strike the nations sounds like wording from Psalm 2, but there the striking is done with "a rod of iron." Shepherd . . . with an iron scepter is the end-time fulfillment of what was predicted of the newborn Son in 12:5. On the winepress of the fierce anger of God, see note at 14:14-20.

19:17-19 , 21 The great armies of the earth, led by the beast and the kings of the earth, assemble to make war against the Lamb (apparently at Armagedon; see notes at 16:12-14 and 16:16). But they end up being killed by the sword that comes out of the mouth of the rider on the white horse (Christ) and fed to the birds at the great supper of God.

19:20 The beast (see note at 13:1-3) and the false prophet (see note at 13:11) are captured and thrown alive into the lake of fire, apparently the first to be sentenced there (Mt 25:41). They are not destroyed, but will suffer torment forever (Rv 20:10).

20:1-3 On the angel . . . with the key to the abyss, see note at 9:1. The great chain is used to bind the dragon (Satan) in the abyss. Some hold that the wording 1,000 years (v v. 2,3,4,5,6,7) is figurative for a long period of time. Others think it speaks of a literal period of 1,000 years. Others think John saw a vision of 1,000 years, but it is impossible to know how the apocalyptic image here will be fulfilled. In regard to Satan not being able to deceive the nations (see note at 12:7-10) until the 1,000 years were completed, a traditional view has been that Satan is limited (i.e., chained) during the new covenant era, though the apparent upsurge in demonic influence and spiritual warfare in modern times has seriously weakened this view. On Satan being released, see note at verses 7-10.

20:4-6 Those who sit on the thrones and have authority to judge are God's people (Dn 7:18,27; 1Co 6:2). The resurrection of martyrs before Christ's earthly reign is called the first resurrection. Since "first resurrection" implies a second resurrection will follow, some interpreters take the first resurrection to be spiritual only (e.g., being "born again") in order to maintain the concept of a general bodily resurrection at the end of time. The fifth beatitude (blessed) of the book recognizes the holiness of those in the first resurrection. On the second death, see verse 14 and note at verses 11-15. Premillennialists follow the natural order of this passage, taking the 1,000 years as falling after the second coming of Christ. Others believe it is a "flashback" (recapitulation) of the time before the second advent, viewing it from a different perspective. Among those who take the recapitulation approach, Amillennialists believe the reign of Christ is being accomplished spiritually even now through the church. This view takes the 1,000 years figuratively, stretching over the entire church era. Postmillennialists believe the preaching of the gospel will at some future date bring about virtual

20:7-10 Satan's release from the abyss (v. 3) is related to the well-known Gog and Magog prophecy in Ezekiel 38-39. This incident will serve as final proof that, even after an extended, unrivaled reign of Christ (Rv 20:4-6), mankind (those born during the 1,000 years) will still follow the Devil. When the rebellion surrounding the beloved city (probably Jerusalem, "renovated" for Christ's reign of 1,000 years) is put down by fire from heaven, as in Ezekiel 39:6, the Devil is thrown into the lake of fire, to join the beast and the false prophet (see note at 19:20) for eternity.

20:11-15 The phrase great white throne emphasizes God's purity and holiness in judging and His sovereign right to both rule and judge the earth. The phrases earth and heaven fled and no place was found for them apparently refer to "the first heaven and the first earth" giving way at the final judgment to "a new heaven and a new earth" (21:1). The dead . . . standing before the throne come to life in the "second resurrection" (implied in v. 5). There are two sets of books at this judgment. The names of all believers are in the book of life. The names of the "earth dwellers" are not in the book of life (13:8; 17:8). They are judged according to their works, which are recorded in the other books. No one can ever be saved by works, because that would leave room for human boasting (Eph 2:8-9). The eternal dwelling place of all unbelievers is the lake of fire. As part of the present creation, Death and Hades (see note at 1:18) are also thrown into the lake of fire.

21:1 While like the present creation in some ways, the new heaven and a new earth will be much different. For example, there will be no sea. However, some believe that "sea" is symbolic for the wickedness of the current created order.

21:2 The bride of the Lamb, introduced in 19:7-9, is now pictured as the Holy City, new Jerusalem (see note at vv. 9-11a). The expression coming down out of heaven is used in all three references to the new Jerusalem (see note at 3:12). This has been taken to imply that the new Jerusalem will be suspended in the air, slightly above the new earth. Prepared . . . adorned may mean that the bride will be just as beautiful—and will be for eternity—as she was during the wedding festivities (19:7-8).

21:3-4 God's presence (dwelling . . . with humanity) will do away with all death . . . grief, crying, and pain.

21:5-8 In the present creation, a Christian is a "new creation" spiritually (2Co 5:17), but in the new heaven and new earth, the Lord will make everything new. The written Word of God is faithful and true (2Tm 3:16), and the living Word of God is also faithful and true (Rv 19:11). On it is done, see note at 16:17-21. On the Alpha and the Omega, see note at 1:8. Living water (22:17) will always be available as a gift, and this pictures the word of grace, received through saving faith, that offers eternal life even in the present.

21:9 - 11a The angel's offer to show John the bride, the wife of the Lamb, parallels the angel's offer to show him the judgment of Babylon in 17:1. When Jesus was tempted by the Devil, He was taken up on a high mountain and shown the splendor of the world's kingdoms (Mt 4:8), but it was nothing in comparison to John's view of the new Jerusalem. On in the Spirit, see note at 1:10. On coming down out of heaven, see note at verse 2.

21:11 b - 14, 21 On a jasper stone, see note at 4:3-4. The 12 gates (each made of a massive single pearl) in the great wall of the new Jerusalem have written on them the names of the 12 tribes of Israel. The 12 foundations of the city wall have the 12 names of the apostles of Christ. This strongly implies that the unified people of God will in some sense maintain the distinct covenant promises to Israel and the church eternally.

21:15-20 The mention of the measuring rod is an allusion to Ezekiel 40-41 (see note at Rv 11:1-2). For a city to be 1,400 miles square (12,000 stadia) with walls over 200 feet thick (144 cubits) is mind-boggling, as are the materials of the wall—jasper stone and gold. The foundations of the city are named for the 12 apostles. It is unknown which precious stone stands for which apostle.

21:22-27 No temple is needed in the new Jerusalem. God the Father (the Almighty) and the Lamb (Christ) are its sanctuary. Also, as there was light from the Lord before the creation of the physical light sources of the universe (Gn 1:3,14-15), there is no need for light (sun or the moon) in the new Jerusalem because God's glory illuminates it. There apparently will be national distinctions (the nations) and human rulers (the kings of the earth) in the eternal state, but since all who will be there are included in the Lamb's book of life (excluding the profane . . . vile, and false; see note at 3:4-5), there is no need for security, and there can be no sin.

22:1-5 The river of living water looks back to Ezekiel 47, as well as to Jesus' promise about the Holy Spirit flowing as "streams of living water" (Jn 7:37-39) from those who believe in Him. The tree of life was in the center of the garden of Eden (Gn 2:9; 3:3). After the fall of mankind into sin, God denied humanity access to the tree (Gn 3:24). Ezekiel 47:12 speaks of trees that bear fruit with medicinal value. The wording here pictures the new Jerusalem as the new and permanent "Eden," where there will no longer be any curse (see Gn 3:14-19). As Adam and Eve walked with the Lord periodically in the garden, His presence will be constant. All inhabitants will have His name on their foreheads, as was the case with the 144,000 (14:1). On night will no longer exist, see note at 21:22-

22:6-7 The sixth beatitude of the book (blessed) repeats the emphases on the imminence of the events in Revelation and the need for application of its prophecies seen in the first beatitude in 1:3 (see note there), but here those elements are in reverse order.

22:8-9 John repeats his mistake of false worship of an angel (see 19:10 and note there). Apparently the reader is to understand that worship of angels (who are majestic) is an easy mistake to make, even for a mature Christian like John.

22:10-12 The book of Daniel was "sealed until the time of the end" (Dn 12:9) to conceal its contents. In clear contrast, and in light of the imminence of the events (the time is near) portrayed in Revelation, John was commanded not to seal the prophetic words of this book. Until the events of the book are fulfilled, people will continue to act in keeping with their fallen spiritual nature (unrighteous . . . filthy or righteous . . . holy), but when the Lord comes, He will render to each person according to his deeds (20:12; 2Co 5:10).

22:13 On the Alpha and the Omega, see note at 1:8.

22:14-15 , 17 The final beatitude (blessed) of the Apocalypse is an elegant presentation of the gospel, using the imagery of the "new Eden" ("the tree of life") and the eternal city (enter the city by the gates). Wash their robes means faith in the shed blood of Christ. The right to the tree of life is what Adam and Eve were cut off from by their sin. The gates of the city and access to the tree of life are made available to those who believe in Jesus, but all unbelievers, with their various sinful lifestyles, are excluded. With the repeated invitation to come and take the living water as a gift (i.e., free grace; see Eph 2:8-9), Revelation ends with passionate evangelistic appeal. Though Jews referred to Gentiles as dogs, in this case it more likely refers to false teachers, whatever their ethnicity, as in Php 3:2.

22:16 Jesus is the Offspring of David in the sense of being a blood descendant of King David. This also serves as a messianic title (see Mt 1:1 and the family tree in Lk 3:23-31). On the Bright Morning Star, see note at Rv 2:28.

22:18-19 It is doubtful the wording here directly refers to closing the canon of the Bible (this book). The book (Gk biblion; "scroll") that is not to be tampered with is the book of Revelation, but the wording does imply that all Scripture should be guarded as sacred, never tampered with. The immediate context in Revelation is of a "new Eden" (vv. 1-5). Also, in Genesis 3, Eve added to the Word of God (Gn 3:3) and the Serpent took away from what the Lord had said (Gn 3:4). As a result, this "biblical bookends" effect of Rv 22:18-19 and Gn 3:3-4 infers that, just as Genesis is the first book in the Bible, Revelation is the last.

22:20 Jesus promised that He is coming quickly (see note at 1:1,3), but it has been well over 1,900 years since He uttered these words. John prayed for Jesus to come soon. God's patience toward the unbelieving world is a cause of Jesus' delay.

22:21 The book of Revelation, though made up largely of apocalyptic (1:1) and prophetic (1:3) literary forms, begins (1:4) and ends (with its concluding grace) like a letter. In spite of all the works of the Devil and the judgment and wrath of God detailed in between, the Apocalypse starts with grace and ends with grace, making a full circle from grace to grace. This is a fitting symmetry for a book that foretells the ultimate victory of "the God of all grace" (1Pt 5:10).

Word Studies pantokrator Greek Pronunciation [pahn tah KRAH tohr]

HCSB Translation Almighty Uses in Revelation 9
Uses in the NT 10
Focus passage Revelation 1:8

Pantokrator means almighty, omnipotent, all-powerful. In the Greek OT, the word frequently translates the Hb Yahweh tseva'ot (Lord of Hosts), which stresses God's power over forces opposed to Him and His people. Pantokrator also translates Hb Shaddai (the Almighty), a term emphasizing God's power and authority over all things. In every instance in the OT, the one true God is in view.

In the NT, every occurrence of pantokrator refers to God the Father. In the book of Revelation, it occurs with the expressions Lord God (1:8; 4:8; 11:17; 15:3; 16:7; 19:6; 21:22), God (16:14; 19:15), and variations of the phrase "the One who is, who was, and who is coming" (1:8; 4:8; 11:17). John uses these epithets (along with many others) to describe the supremacy of God over all things including human history. God Almighty is actively working to bring everything into conformity with His will.

nikao Greek Pronunciation [nih KAH oh]
HCSB Translation be victorious, conquer Uses in Revelation 17
Uses in the NT 28
Focus passage Revelation 2:7

Nikao means to be victorious or to conquer, and the related noun nike means victory, usually in a military sense but also in a judicial context (Rm 3:4). Outside of John's writings, nikao occurs only four times (Lk 11:22; Rm 3:4; 12:21). In John's theology, Christ has already conquered the forces of evil (Jn 16:33; Rv 5:5). Even though these forces may gain temporary, provisional victories over the saints (Rv 11:7; 13:7), it is Christ who has won the definitive victory over evil, and those whom He has enlisted in the fight will conquer with Him (3:21; 15:2; 17:14). Each of the messages to the Asia Minor churches ends with a promise to the victor (2:7,11,17,26-27; 3:5,12,21), to those who overcome evil not through human effort but through solidarity with Christ (Jn 5:4-5; 1Jn 4:4; 5:5; Rv 12:11). These victors will inherit the new heaven and new earth (21:7).

arche Greek Pronunciation [ahr KAY]

Focus passage Revelation 3:14

Arche indicates the chief position, either in time (beginning, commencement), rank/position (ruler, governor, originator), or location (corner; Ac 10:11). It can also refer to the domain of someone's authority (i.e., their rule; Lk 20:20; 1Co 15:24). Other related terms include the verb archo (to rule), archomai (to begin), and the noun archon (ruler). In John's writings, arche always refers to sequential priority, such as the beginning of the world (Jn 1:1,2; 1Jn 1:1; 2:13-14), of some aspect of Jesus' ministry (Jn 2:11; 6:64; 8:25; 15:27; 16:4), of Satan's rebellion against God (Jn 8:44; 1Jn 3:8), and of Christian witness (1Jn 2:7,24; 3:11; 2Jn 5,6). In Revelation, Jesus is called the "Originator of God's creation" (Rv 3:14) as well as "the Beginning and the End" (22:13), a title shared by God the Father (21:6), indicating that God started everything and will end everything.

hagios Greek Pronunciation [HAH gee ahss]

Focus passage Revelation 4:8

Hagios (holy) frequently refers to that which is dedicated or set apart to God's service, describing things that have a derived holiness. This includes the church (1Co 3:17; Eph 5:26; 1Pt 2:9), as well as individual Christians (Rm 12:1). Indeed, hagios may be translated "saints" in reference to believers, who are set apart by God for His service (Mt 27:52; Ac 9:13; Rm 1:7; 1Co 1:2; Rv 5:8). The word also describes Jerusalem (Mt 4:5; Rv 21:2,10; 22:19), the various parts of the sanctuary (Mt 24:15; Heb 9:1-3), angels (Mk 8:38), OT prophets (Lk 1:70), Christian apostles and prophets (Eph 3:5), divine revelation (Rm 1:2; 2Pt 2:21), and various geographical locations (Ac 7:33; 2Pt 1:18). Additionally, hagios may describe what is holy by nature, namely, God the Father (Jn 17:11; 1Pt 1:15; Rv 4:8), Jesus Christ (Mk 1:24; Ac 3:14), and the Spirit (Mt 3:11; Ac 1:5).

sphragis Greek Pronunciation [sfrah GIHSS]

Focus passage Revelation 6:1

Sphragis (seal) could refer to an instrument used to apply a seal (7:2) or to the seal (5:1,2,5) or inscription (2Tm 2:19) itself. The related verb sphragizo means to mark with a seal, in order to secure (Mt 27:66; Rv 20:3) or hide something (10:4; 22:10). The person who owns the stamp enjoys authority over what is sealed. This authority indicates ownership, protection, and approval, themes that predominate in Revelation (7:3-5,8; 9:4). The seven-sealed scroll belongs to God, and only the Lamb is worthy to break the seals to reveal the scroll's contents (chaps. 5-6; 8:1).

Metaphorically, a seal could indicate official authentication or confirmation of a truth, and in this sense Paul speaks of circumcision as the seal (i.e., authentication, Rm 4:11) of Abraham's faith-based righteousness. Similarly, the Corinthian church was the seal (i.e., confirmation; 1Co 9:2) of Paul's apostleship.

phule Greek Pronunciation [foo LAY]

Focus passage Revelation 7:4-9

Phule can refer to a group of people united along socio-political lines (i.e., a nation) or to a subgroup within a nation, characterized by a distinctive bloodline (i.e., a tribe). Outside of the book of Revelation, phule normally refers to one or more of Israel's twelve tribes (Mt 19:28; Lk 2:36; 22:30; Ac 13:21; Rm 11:1; Php 3:5; Heb 7:13-14), a usage less frequently attested in the book of Revelation (5:5; 7:4-8; 21:12). Phule occurs 21 times in Revelation, where John speaks of tribes among the Gentile nations (1:7; 5:9; 7:9; 11:9; 13:7; 14:6; this broader sphere of tribes may also be in view in Mt 24:30 and Jms 1:1). In this latter sense, phule has some semantic overlap with the Gk terms genos (nation, race) and ethnos (foreigners, nations).

Focus passage Revelation 8:13

Outside of the book of Revelation, katoikeo (to live , dwell) mainly refers to residing in a city (Mt 2:23; Lk 13:4; Ac 2:5,14; 9:22,32; 19:17) or a region (Ac 2:9; 11:29; 19:10), though the term is used on occasion to describe spiritual realities: unclean spirits residing in a man (Mt 12:45 = Lk 11:26); God dwelling in His sanctuary (Mt 23:21; cp. Ac 7:48; 17:24); Christ living in believers' hearts (Eph 3:17); God's fullness dwelling in Christ (Col 1:19; 2:9); and righteousness dwelling in the new heavens and new earth (2Pt 3:11).

In Revelation, katoikeo always appears in a negative sense. Twelve of its thirteen occurrences (2:13 being the exception) appear in the phrase "those who live on the earth" (3:10; 6:10; 8:13; 11:10; 13:8,12,14; 17:2,8). This phrase always focuses upon unbelievers, envisioned as those who serve the beast and persecute believers, thus constituting themselves as God's enemies.

Focus passage Revelation 9:11

Abussos (abyss) was originally an adjective describing something unfathomable with no apparent depth or bottom. In the Greek OT, abussos envisions the fathomless ocean depths (watery depths , Gn 1:2; 7:11; 8:2; Is 51:10) and possibly the realm of the dead (depths of the earth; Ps 63:9; 71:20). In the few centuries preceding Christ, abussos evolved to refer to the place of imprisonment for disobedient angelic spirits. This highly developed meaning carries into the NT, where abussos typically refers to the place of punishment in which demonic spirits (including the Devil) are held (Lk 8:31; Rv 9:1-2,11; 20:3), and the place from which the beast originates (11:7-8). Abussos may also refer to the present realm of the dead (Rm 10:7), a concept similar to that of the Greek term hades and the Hebrew term sheol (cp. Ps 16:10; Ac 2:27).

In classical Greek, phone normally refers to verbal sounds, including a battle cry, the noise of an animal, or a human language or dialect. Similarly, the related verb phoneo means to produce a sound or tone. In the NT, phoneo occurs 43 times, 42 in the Gospels and Acts, with the dominant meanings to call, call out, or summon, but it also refers to a rooster's crowing (e.g., Mt 26:34,74-75).

Phone most commonly refers to the voice (Mt 2:18; Jn 1:23; Rv 10:3-4,7-8), but it also has other uses, such as the sound of the wind (Jn 3:8; Ac 2:6), the sound of musical instruments (1Co 14:7-8; Heb 12:19; Rv 8:13; 18:22), and human language (1Co 14:10-11). In Revelation, phone sometimes refers to the rumblings of thunder, signifying God's presence and power (4:5; 8:5; 11:19; 14:2; 16:18; 19:6).

Therion (beast, animal) was used to refer to any living creature excluding man, but usually wild, undomesticated animals. In mythological imagery, therion could describe supernatural creatures such as the griffin, the hydra, or a huge dragon.

In the NT, therion normally refers to undomesticated animals in general (Mk 1:13; Ac 11:6; Ti 1:12; Heb 12:20; Jms 3:7), including a snake (Ac 28:4-5) and particularly dangerous animals (Rv 6:8). However, Daniel 7 and most of the occurrences of therion in Revelation (6:8; 18:2 excepted) reflect the more metaphorical, mythological imagery. Therion occurs ten times in the Greek OT of Daniel 7, where four creatures arise from the sea, understood as four Gentile empires (7:17). Similarly, Revelation uses therion as (1) a vivid personification of an ungodly Gentile empire (Rv 17:3-5), (2) the antichrist (11:7,17; 13:1-4; 17:7-8; 19:19), or (3) the false prophet (13:11).

Focus passage Revelation 13:18

No biblical number has received as much attention as 666. Much that is said about this mysterious number in popular literature is misleading, but reasonable explanations exist. One explanation applies Gematria. This practice of representing words by numerical equivalents was found in extrabiblical religious sources and was based upon the fact that Hebrew and Greek attached a numerical value to each alphabetical letter. Thus every word could be assigned a numerical value by summing the values of its letters. Thus the beast's name could be deduced from his number (Rv 13:18; 15:2). Others believe 666 is one example of John's normal figurative use of numbers (cp. 5:11; 7:4,9; 9:15; 20:8), none of which were ever intended to be calculated. In this view, the number six indicates incompleteness and serves as a contrastive counterpart to the occurrences of seven (signifying completeness) in the book of Revelation. Triple repetition of six would indicate the absolute sinful imperfection of the beast.

The adjective axios describes something that is of comparable value or worth to something else (comparable, worthy), or something that is appropriate to a particular person or activity (corresponding to, deserving of). In the NT, axios occurs several times in reference to those receiving a punishment of death (i.e., the punishment corresponds to the crime; Lk 23:15,41; Ac 23:29; 25:11,25; 26:31; Rm 1:32). In the Gospels, axios occasionally describes truths about salvation and discipleship (Mt 3:8; 10:37-38; Lk 12:48), and Paul does the same in Rm 8:18 (the related verb axioo occurs in 2Th 1:11; 1Tm 5:17, and the adverb axios occurs in Eph 4:1; Php 1:27; Col 1:10; 1Th 2:12). In Revelation, the redeemed are found worthy of their reward (Rv 3:4); God is worthy of glory, honor, and power (4:11); and the Lamb is worthy to break the seals of the scroll (5:2,4,9,12).

The noun bdelugma (abomination, vile thing), the adjective bdeluktos (detestable, vile) and the verb bdelusso (to make detestable; Ex 5:21; bdelussomai, to abhor, detest, or be detested) occur only rarely in the NT (bdelugma 6x; bdeluktos 1x; bdelusso 2x), though they appear frequently in the Greek OT. In the Mosaic law and the Prophets, bdelugma describes things which are ceremonially unclean (Lv 5:2; 7:21; 11:10-13,20,23,41-42), as well as pagan idolatrous practices abhorrent to God (Dt 7:25-26; Jr 4:1; 7:10; Ezk 5:11), including human sacrifice (Dt 12:31), homosexuality (Lv 18:22; 20:13), and occultic rites (Dt 18:9-12). In the NT, Jesus used bdelugma to describe the antichrist, who will establish himself in God's sanctuary ("abomination that causes desolation"; Mt 24:15 = Mk13:14; Dn 9:27; 11:31; 12:11; cp. 2Th 2:4). Planao literally means to wander about (Heb 11:38). This connotation of wandering can be seen in the related nouns planes/planetes (wanderer), from which English word planet ultimately derives. Indeed, the planets often appeared to the ancients as "wandering" across the sky among the seemingly fixed stars. By figurative extension, planao could also mean to go astray (Mt 18:12-13; Heb 3:10; 5:2; Jms 5:19) or to be deceived or misled (Mt 22:29 = Mk 12:24; Jn 7:12,47; 1Co 6:9; Gl 6:7; 2Tm 3:13; Jms 1:16; 1Jn 1:8; 2:26; 3:7). Planao may also mean to mislead someone (Mt 24:4-5 = Mk 13:5-6; Jn 7:12) and this is how the word tends to function in Revelation, where John warns about the deceivers "Jezebel" (Rv 2:20), the false prophet (13:14; 19:20), Babylon (Rv 18:23), and Satan—the archdeceiver (12:9; 20:3,8,10).

poimaino Greek Pronunciation [poy MIGH noh] HCSB Translation shepherd Uses in Revelation 4
Uses in the NT 11
Focus passage Revelation 19:15

Poimaino (to shepherd) basically means to tend or nurture sheep (Lk 17:7), and the related noun poimen was the common term for shepherd. However, poimaino was typically used in the more metaphorical sense of to rule or govern, typically with positive results but occasionally with negative ones (Rv 2:27; 12:5; 19:15). These last three references contain an allusion to Ps 2:9, which indicates that the Lord's anointed will rule or govern (poimaino in the Greek OT) the nations "with a rod of iron." In the NT, poimaino typically retains the literal image of a shepherd tending sheep, while applying this metaphorically to those who take care of the Father's "flock" (Mt 2:6; Jn 21:16; Ac 20:28; 1Pt 5:2; Rv 7:17). The use of poimaino in Rv 7:17 involves a mixed metaphor, in that "the Lamb" is going to "shepherd " the redeemed.

alpha Greek Pronunciation [AL fah]
HCSB Translation Alpha Uses in Revelation 3
Uses in the NT 3
Focus passage Revelation 21:6

Alpha is the first letter in the Greek alphabet, and omega is the last. In the NT, these two letters occur together three times in the phrase "the Alpha and the Omega," twice of God the Father (Rv 1:8; 21:6) and once of God the Son (Rv 22:13), indicating the close mutual unity between the Father and Son (cp. Jn 10:38; 14:10-11). “The Alpha and the Omega” appears in juxtaposition to “the One who is, who was, and who is coming” (Rv 1:8; cp. 1:4), as well as to “the Beginning and the End” (21:6) and “the First and the Last” (22:13). The phrase sums up the entirety of God’s sovereign power over all things, specifically His control over all human history. “The Alpha and the Omega” has the power to begin and end all things in accordance with His decree, and the phrase provides strong affirmation of Jesus’ deity and messianic lordship.

metopon Greek Pronunciation [MEH toh pahn]
HCSB Translation forehead Uses in Revelation 8
Uses in the NT 8
Focus passage Revelation 22:4

In the ancient world, a mark on the forehead (metopon) normally involved a master/slave relationship (cp. word study on seal , Gk sphragis). Such markings were used to signify (1) tribal identity, (2) ownership, or (3) loyalty to a deity (closely related to ownership), as well as (4) to punish runaway slaves.

In the NT, metopon occurs in Revelation, where a mark on the forehead is always in view. On four occasions God claims ownership of His slaves by applying His name to their foreheads, protecting them from His judgment (7:3; 9:4; 14:1; 22:4). Three times God’s enemies receive the mark of the beast (perhaps his name or 666) on their right hand or forehead (13:16; 14:9; 20:4). This represents a satanic counterpart to God’s sealing. Elsewhere, the prostitute riding the scarlet beast bears a cryptic name on her forehead (17:5), perhaps an allusion to the ancient practice of Roman prostitutes placing their names on headbands.
